professor deo

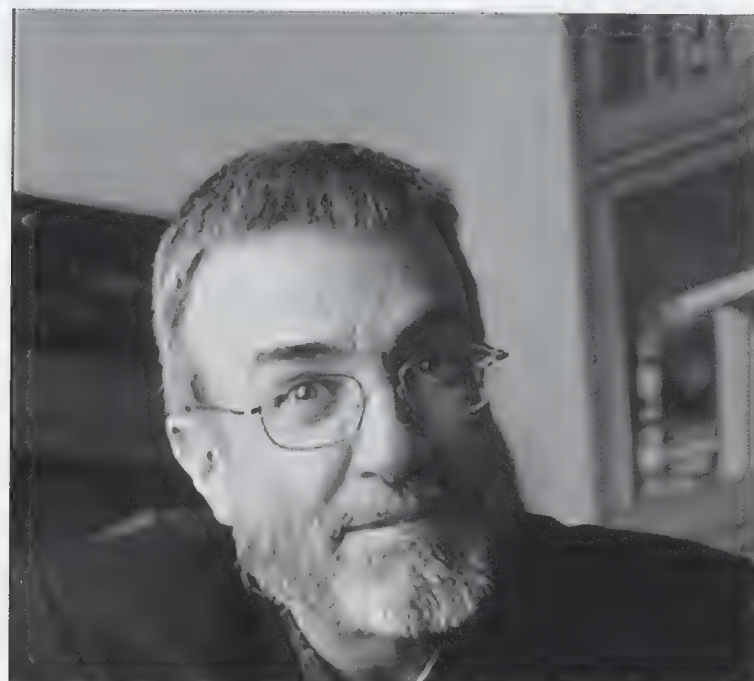

MAURA KELLY, '14

Professor Nandini Deo received her undergraduate degree in Political Science from Bryn Mawr College and her master's degree and Ph.D. (also in Political Science) from Yale University. She joined the Lehigh community in 2008, and she currently teaches Comparative Politics, Afghanistan, Politics of South Asia, a seminar on religion and politics and a seminar on South Mountain Campus for the spring 2011 semester. On teaching at Lehigh, she has come to believe that the best teaching and the best writing are where you allow the reader or student to figure things out themselves. Professor Deo's first book, "Politics of Collective Advocacy," came out in January 2011 and is about NGOs and social movements in India. Teaching undergrads has helped her writing become clearer and more engaging, and she is constantly reminded of the things you cannot take for granted in the reader, such as differing perspectives. Professor Deo describes her favorite part of Lehigh is that it is a "Goldilocks school," not too big and not too small, and neither completely academic nor entirely party-focused. Lehigh has many qualities of a research university, but it also has the intimacy of a liberal arts college, though with these great advantages also comes the challenges of having a little bit of everything. Professor Deo spent last summer in Afghanistan, which to her was incredibly intellectually interesting but also a little bit scary. She celebrated her coming home and adventure by dyeing her hair blue. Her students in her Afghanistan class made a film in the fall semester called "Engaging Afghanistan," which premiered in January, and Professor Deo encourages all students to view the film online.

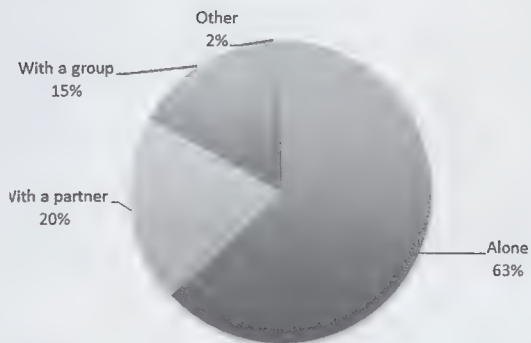

The class of 2014 may recognize Professor Lule from his keynote address at the Freshman Convocation this past fall. He was elected to address Lehigh's incoming class, and he was honored to be able to offer words of advice and wisdom to new Lehigh students. Professor Lule's education began at SUNY Binghamton, where he majored in sociology and psychology. He then went on to receive his master's degree in journalism from Temple University and a Ph.D. in mass communications from the University of Georgia. At Lehigh, Professor Lule teaches Intro to Global Studies, as well as independent studies and projects for upperclassmen. He was named the Director of the Globalization and Social Change Initiative. Professor Lule has also sponsored the global studies major, which is currently the fastest growing major at Lehigh. Professor Lule has been working at Lehigh for 20 years. He believes that the best thing about Lehigh is the interaction between students and faculty, as well as the long-lasting relationships forged during the undergraduate years. He admits that his least favorite thing about Lehigh is the fast-paced academic life, which limits the amount of time he can spend with students. In addition to teaching, Professor Lule has also written several books, including "Daily News, Eternal Stories: The Mythological Role of Journalism." Professor Lule is also currently working on a second book that looks at the links between globalization and media. He resides in Bethlehem with his wife, and he has three sons, two of which are away at college.

professor brown

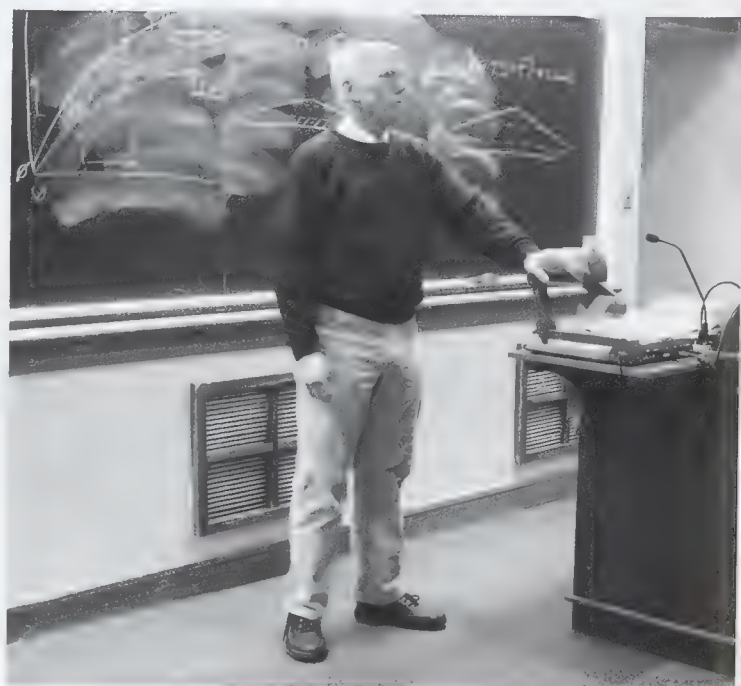

MEAGAN McDONALD, '11

In college, there are some professors that we like because they are easy; there are other professors we like because they are experienced or worldly; and there are other professors that we like because they are genuinely nice people and care about educating us. Jill Brown falls into that last category. She is passionate about the subject she teaches and wants to share that passion with her students. Perhaps one reason why she relates with students at Lehigh so well is that she went here herself. Even then, she was a legacy. Lehigh offered her father, Harold Griesing (Class of 1953) an engineering scholarship that allowed him to move away from the coal mines of Pennsylvania. Her great uncle, husband, and cousin also graduated from Lehigh. According to Brown, "My family owes a lot to Lehigh. That's one of the reasons I eventually came back." She received her bachelor's degree in economics from Lehigh in 1983, and she worked for several years in commercial banking. She eventually earned an MBA at Augusta State University in Georgia while working as a small business consultant specializing in human resource management. She then enrolled in University of GA's Ph.D. program in strategic management with a goal of teaching and researching. Her specialties now include corporate governance, corporate social responsibility, ethics, and competitive dynamics. Anyone who talks to Professor Brown can see that she is passionate about learning. This shows in the interactive nature of her courses. "I like to mix up my teaching, not just lecture. My students challenge me as much as I challenge them. I want to provide my students with their working language, not just a textbook understanding of business."

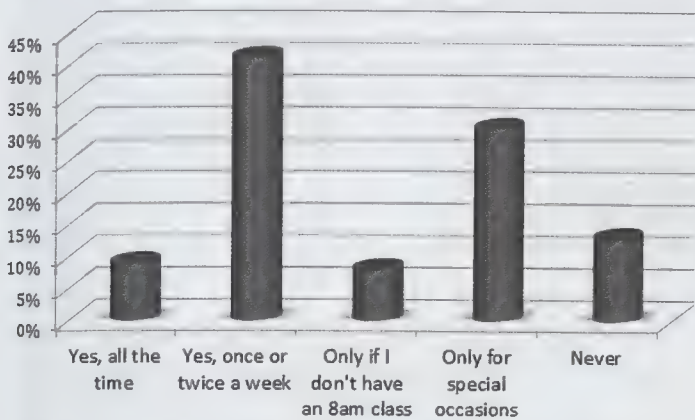

Not many people can say that their professor is a retired Marine colonel or was a chief economic advisor in Iraq. However, students of Professor Gunter can say just that, and no one can complain that he does not have real-world experience in the subject that he teaches. In 2005, Professor Gunter was assigned to be military Chief of Economic Section for Multi-National Force in Baghdad, Iraq. In 2008, he held a similar position as the Senior Civilian Economics Advisor for Multi-National Corps at Camp Victory, Iraq. In both situations, he made economic recommendations that impacted the way our activity in Iraq was conducted. He took all of the theory that he teaches and applied it in a very real way, and now his students can benefit from this vast experience in Professor Gunter's Political Economy of Iraq class, which is the only undergraduate course of its kind being taught in the entire country. In addition to this specialized class, Gunter also teaches Eco-1, which is by far his favorite class: "Every class had a different personality. It is the same material in the same fashion, but there is always something new. Students always have new questions or a new perspective." Although he is now retired, he spent 35 years in the Marines to compliment his experiences in academia. Perhaps one of his favorite things about teaching is the progress and sense of accomplishment it offers. He also likes the performance part of the job: "In a big lecture, you have to be theatrical. You have to tell weird and funny stories. That way, if they have trouble with the concept, they will remember the story and then the concept will follow." In his leisure time, Professor Gunter likes to run and read.

RACHEL WHITEMORE, '14

Professor William Best teaches engineering classes at Lehigh, but that does not thoroughly describe the type of teacher he is. Professor Best loves the students, praises the administration for their creative approach to education, and continues his own education to improve the quality and depth of his knowledge. It's no wonder the students truly enjoy the classes he teaches, as well as his presence at the university. He got his undergraduate degree in mechanical engineering at Tufts University, his graduate degree in biomechanics from Virginia Tech, and is in the process of getting his Ph.D. in technology studies from the University of London. He teaches circuits-electrical engineering circuits for both majors and non-majors, as well as the required seminars for all IDEAS students. This is his fourth year at Lehigh, but has been teaching close to 25 years in total. Previous teaching positions include Virginia Tech, University of Vermont, University of London, and even Lafayette College for 14 years. "I hope this is my last stop, though," says Best. "It's the most creative place I've been." He describes the students here as inquisitive, challenging, and just a lot of fun to be around. Besides engineering, Professor Best is a fan of literature, soccer, political science, and his young daughter.

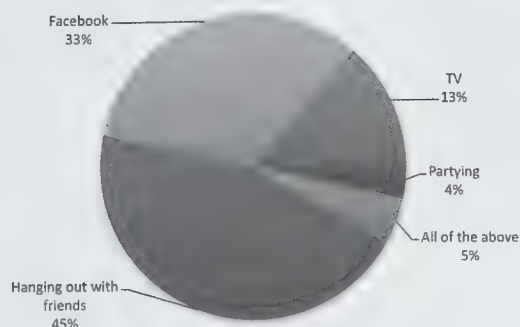

If you are in the engineering school, you may have never heard of Lori Herz. She has only been teaching here for a mere two years which, in comparison to some teachers that have been here almost as long as the university, is nothing. However, Professor Herz brings with her a unique perspective and teaching style that is refreshing to students. She went to Cornell for her undergraduate degree and Rutgers for grad school. In school, she studied chemical and biological engineering, focusing her research in the area of plant cell culture. However, after completing grad school she took a break from academia to work in the pharmaceutical industry for eight years. She came here to work in our relatively new bioengineering department that started less than ten years ago. She teaches metabolic engineering, bioengineering labs, and advises the integrated product development (IPD) program. Professor Herz says, "I really enjoy the interaction with the students, especially when they learn about themselves. I also really like showing how what you learn in the classroom can be applicable in the real world. That's what bioengineering is all about." In her free time, Professor Herz likes to remain active. She runs, hikes, and rides bikes regularly. She also plays the flute.

Fall

"What I thought would have been very stressful ended up being very easy. All the clubs and fraternities were extremely helpful to help carry all of my luggage up to my room."

—Ben Mayo

"The people that were waiting to move us in were extremely helpful. Everyone was smiling, friendly, and I felt comfortable immediately. The process was extremely organized and my gryphon was available to answer all my questions."

—Evin Epstein

Clockwise from above: An excited freshman says her last goodbyes with a family hug. A mother and daughter analyze the campus map to find the correct dorm while grabbing lunch on the front lawn. President Gast helps freshmen unpack, alongside volunteering students and staff. Orientation leaders are excited to greet the newest members of the campus community.

freshman move-in

ALISON MOTOLA, '14

What will my room look like? Will all of my stuff fit? Will I like my roommate? These familiar questions are endless for an incoming freshman and, on August 26th, 2010, they would finally be answered. Filled with both excitement and nerves, freshmen pulled up to the hills of the university. Gryphons and Greeks offered a helping hand, as each freshman began to feel more and more at home. Yet, despite the warmth that radiated from their surroundings, they could not help but wonder when they would finally be settled in. After making their way to their room and getting through the first greetings with the person they would be living with for the next eight months, it was time to unpack: clothes on hangers in the closet, bedding spread across their mattresses, and ethernet cords plugged in. Before they knew it the day was done and it was time to say goodbye to their parents. Little did they know how quickly they would feel at home.

parent's weekend

CASSANDRA HOMICK, '14

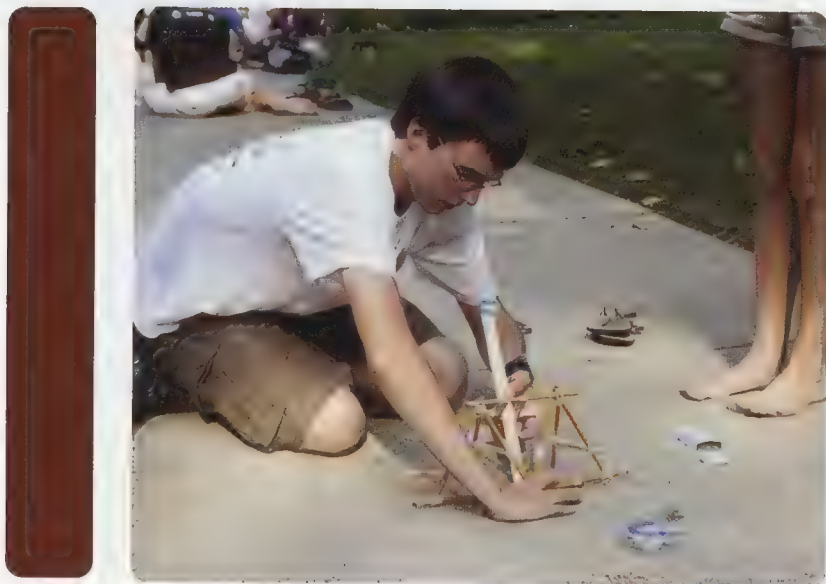

On a glorious Saturday morning in October, a sea of family members bustled into Lehigh University. With arms open wide, they embraced the students they had not long ago sent off to college. Following an exchange of hugs, smiles, and greetings, each family set out on their own separate ways, but not before grabbing a bite to eat from the generous meal laid out before them on the UC front lawn. This Family Weekend was different from most since there was no football game scheduled, but that did not stand in the way of everyone having an enjoyable time. That Saturday night, many families attended a concert at the Arts Center featuring the phenomenal legendary hits of Stevie Wonder. Bright and early the next morning, several participated in the LU Family 5K Walk/Run on Goodman Campus, with proceeds benefiting The American Cancer Society and Victory House. After refreshments, many families attended "The Merchants of Bollywood" at the Zoellner Arts Center. With original music and dancing from the biggest Bollywood movies of all time, the show was spectacular. Late that night, the majority of families bid goodbye to their loved ones, wishing them the very best. This was surely a weekend to remember.

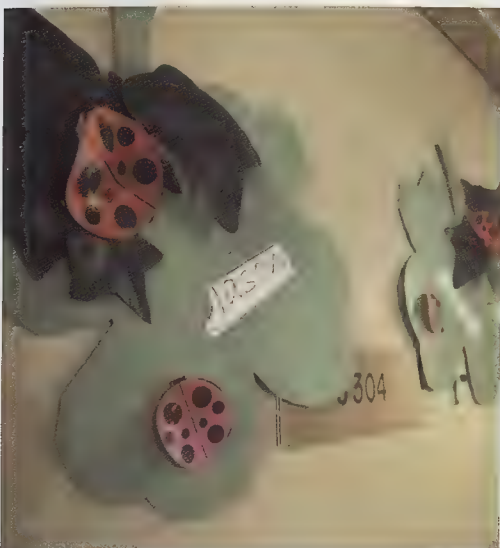

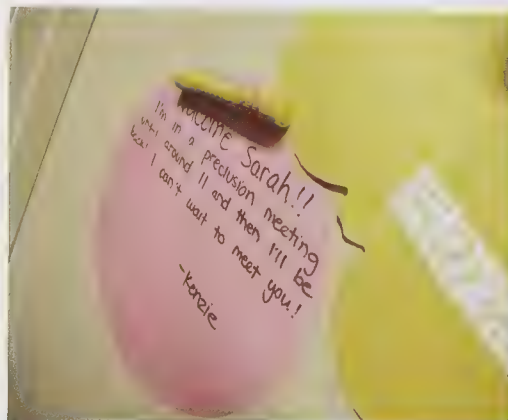

Clockwise from right: Parents are taken on a campus tour to view more in-depth the buildings their sons and daughter walk through and work in every day. Families gather in the Black Diamond Theater in Zoellner Arts Center to get underway with the day's activities. Shopping at the bookstore is a ritual for visiting parents and family members to partake in. Families shop around, picking out their favorite Lehigh items and memorabilia to show off their pride in their children and the school.

GABRIELLE LA FORCE, '12

Coming to college can be a scary experience; students leave the comfort of home to go away to school without knowing what will happen. By far one of the biggest changes that most of us must quickly adapt to is having a roommate. Some of us do not have siblings and are used to having our own space, while those of us with siblings may have had the perk of having their own room. Either way, we are quickly thrown into a completely different living arrangement that most of us are not used to. In order to ease the transition, there are many ways we try to find that perfect roommate, but the surveys done by Lehigh and the roommate questionnaires on Facebook may not help us as much as we would like. Problems of different sleep schedules and study schedules can quickly create conflict in the room. William Clark '12 went from living in a triple in Drinker to living off-campus, where he had his own room, "I was living with two of my close friends, but in that small of a space there will always be some issues. This year has been great. We have our living room and other spaces we share, but when I need to do work or sleep, I have my own room to escape to."

LINDSAY MILLER, '11

This year, Greek Week took place in the fall. There were teams consisting of one sorority and two fraternities. On Sunday was the opening ceremony which took place in Packard 101 and featured a speaker promoting Greek Week. This was a big change from previous years where the opening ceremony was a time to show off the new pledge classes by wearing themed togas and displaying a themed banner. Monday's activities were kickball and dodgeball, and Tuesday's events were volleyball and trivia. Wednesday was philanthropy and community service day. To top off the night, there was a can castle competition to create the best looking building. Thursday was the Amazing Race, which was a relay that took place all over Asa Packard Campus and consisted of trivia, puzzles, races and more. That night was a game show called "Minute to Win it," which allowed all the teams to compete in funny activities in only a minute! Friday was field events at Sayre Field with activities such as the tug of war and the egg game. Lastly, that night was closing ceremonies at the Rauch courtyard. The red team came in first place for Greek Week; congrats to Alpha Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, and Sigma Phi Epsilon!

the new textbook

RACHEL WHITEMORE, '14

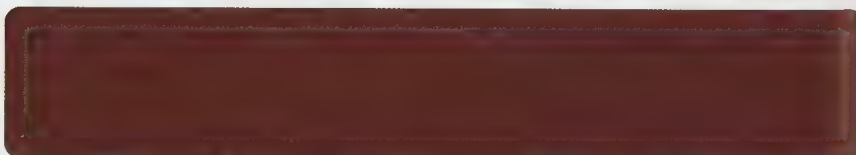

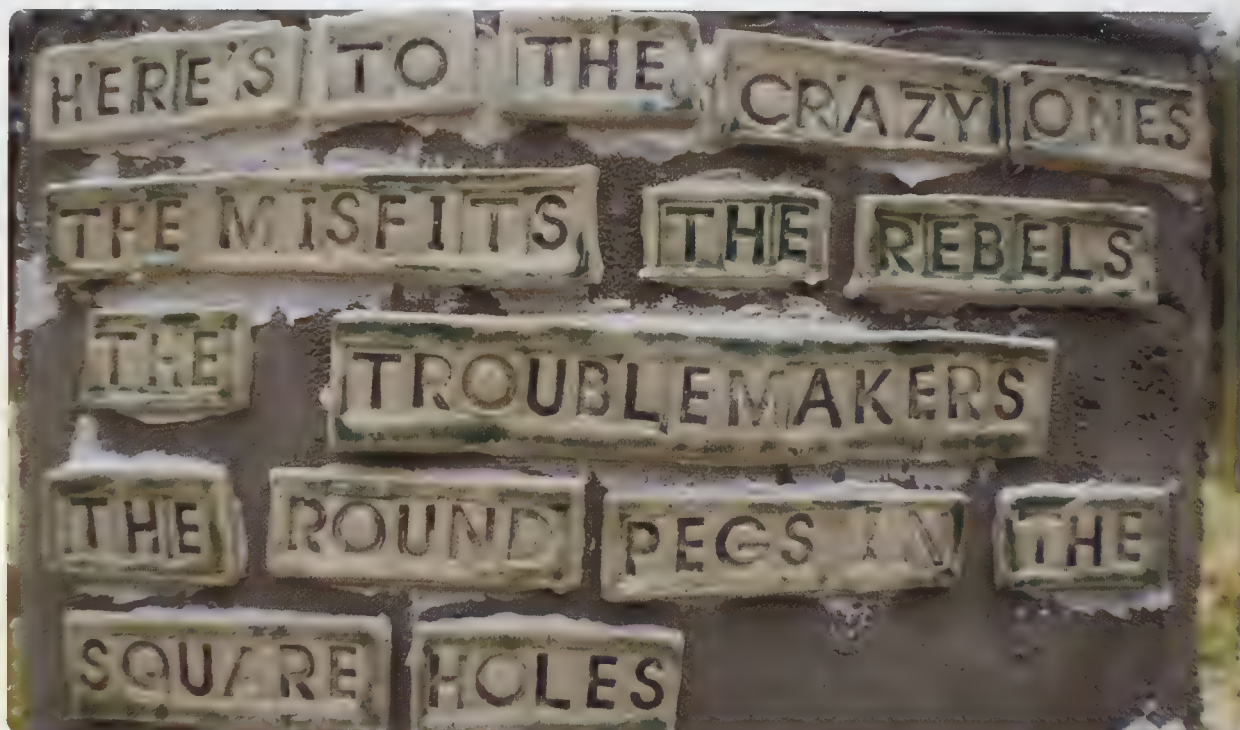

A college education is one of the most valuable things a person can possess. It is also immensely expensive, and therefore a challenge to fund. For many students, finding a way to decrease the costs of college is a priority. This year, the bookstore found one way to aid students in their efforts to make college just a little bit cheaper: textbook rentals. Usually the options for buying books are limited to new or used, Lehigh bookstore or online, expensive or just a little less expensive. With this new program, which began in the fall of 2010 at the Lehigh bookstore, students now have the chance to pay a substantially lower price for their needed textbooks, then simply return them once the semester has ended. Any Lehigh student is eligible to rent textbooks; there are no special qualifications to participate in the program. While not all textbooks are available to rent, the list is growing rapidly. The specific conditions, prices and dates are provided for the student at the time of rental. According to the general manager of the Lehigh University bookstore, Steve Schatten, "As long as the books are returned by the due date the program is an excellent way to save money," and what college student would want to pass that up?

the sculpture gardens

HAYDEE KRISTINA LOPEZ, '11

It's one of those bucket list items you have to cross off your list, and it might just be one of the more memorable ones. Up the hill, past the Alpha Phi house, through a gravel drive is the scrap-yard of artwork called the Sculpture Garden. Rumors mill around campus about the place and the possibility of the area being the sight of an old, burned-down fraternity. After some research, we found that the space started as a dumping ground and was transformed by professor of Religion Studies, Norman Girardot, and his students in 2000. Taking the old and making it new was the theme of the project, and today it stands as a Lehigh landmark that students cannot afford to miss out on.

sounds around campus

HAYDEE KRISTINA LOPEZ, '11

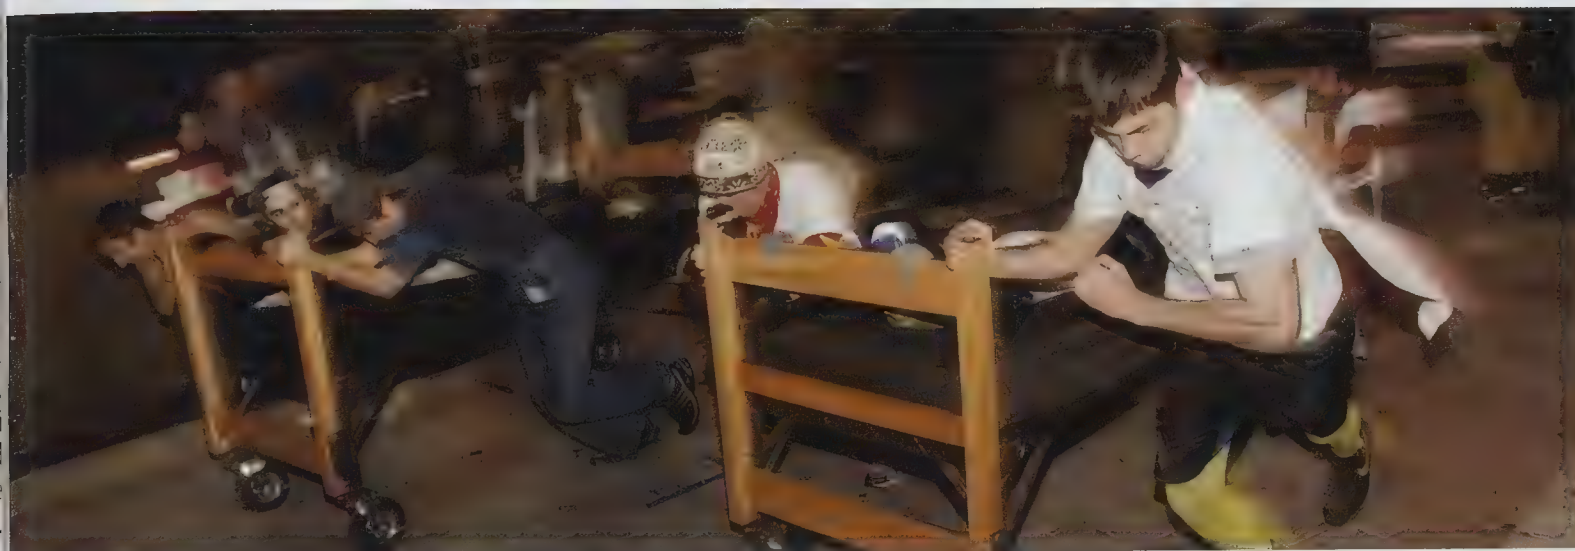

Pop into Terra Café, Godfrey Daniels or the Funhouse, and you can catch some of your classmates extending their talents into the creative arena by performing at open mic nights. Many Lehigh students have formed bands that are active on campus and off. Together, they find success at these venues that offer a great space to rise from "garage band" status to legitimate performers. Musical talent is everywhere, and in March, the Battle of the Bands featured 17 bands that competed for the coveted spot of opening act at Sundaze. One student band, The Peeled Labels, formed in the fall of 2010 and have developed a genre-defying style with classical, jazz, pop, and folk inspiration. They offer a unique, refreshing vibe with talent across classes. Members include: Kwesi Kankam ('11)- Guitar and Vocals, Michael Hodson ('10)- Piano/keyboard, Amy Forando ('11)- Oboe, Kevin Patel ('10)- Violin, Connor Schmitt ('14)- Flute, Reeve Groman ('14)- Bass, Mei-fan Parnes ('14)- Vocals/ Percussion, Jake Puzycki ('14)-Drums. They have performed on campus and around Bethlehem, and they showcase a different type of Lehigh talent that is definitely something to look for

GABRIELLE LA FORCE, '12

Every year, students gather outside Linderman Library to watch as their peers race each other on beds along Library Drive. Bed Races is an annual event during the infamous Lehigh-Lafayette week in the fall. It serves as one of many events to raise our school spirit and encourage some friendly competition. Next to Lehigh-Laf-a-palooza, Bed Races is the second largest event and one that everyone, including Randi Ackerman '11, looks forward to: "Bed Races is a tradition that has been going on since my dad went to Lehigh. It's one event of the few events during the week I can share with my parents." Other students look forward to the event as an opportunity to get a group of friends together and plan some crazy outfits. Along with getting a team of five together (four people to push and one to ride on the bed), each team must have a theme that includes an outfit and song to be played at the beginning of their race. The favorite part of the race for Christine Martin '13 is the team planning: "I was pumped for our race to start, but still had a lot of fun planning out what to wear and our decorations. Next year I can't wait to get my friends together and plan it all out again."

three in a row

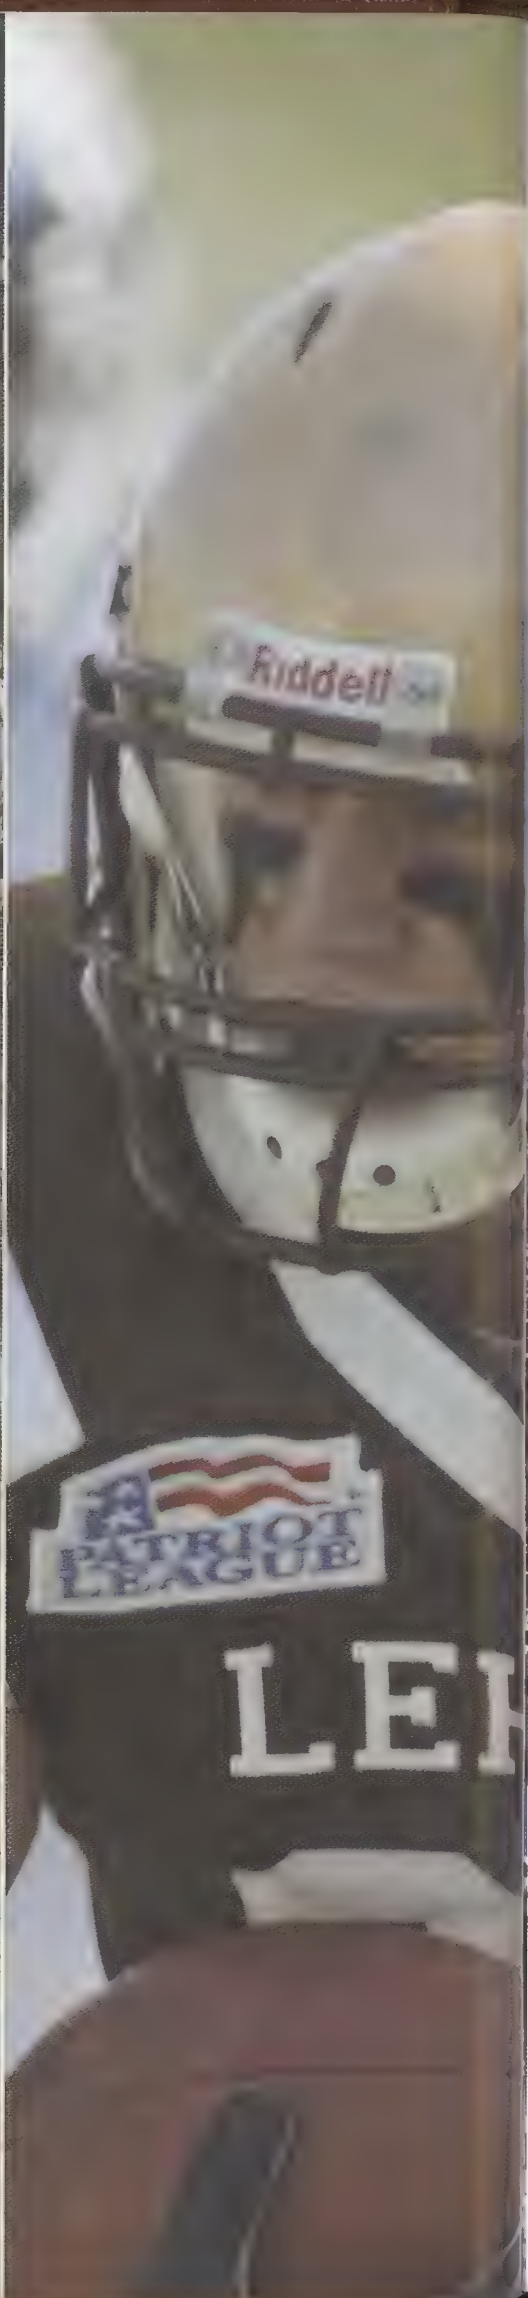

SARAH WOOGEN, '13

Saturday morning, the majority of Lehigh's student body boarded the dozens of buses that were lined up on Packard Ave as far as the eye could see, and then one by one they headed off to visit Lehigh's rival, Lafayette College in Easton, PA. There, students joined alumni, families and Lafayette students for the most anticipated game of the year. Lehigh spirit radiated from the bleachers, while the Marching 97 played, and LU's Clutch and the Lehigh cheerleaders riled up the crowd. It was a suspenseful game, with the leading team constantly alternating, but finally the end seemed near. With only a few seconds left on the clock, the Lehigh University football team just needed to run out the clock to maintain its winning score. Before the clock could even hit zero, the Lehigh student body was storming the field, an exciting 20 to 13 displayed on the scoreboard in the background. As a swarm of brown and white filled the field to triumph our third consecutive victory against Lafayette, it was evident that it didn't matter if we were home or away; we beat Lafayette.

Saying the 2010 Lehigh Football season was a success almost doesn't do it justice. After starting the season 2-2, due to losing to two teams ranked in the Top 20 in the nation, the Mountain Hawks continued with seven straight wins to finish the regular season 9-2, good for first place in the Patriot League. The 7th win in that streak was against rival Lafayette, as they beat the Leopards 20-13 in the 146th meeting between the two teams. Another regular season highlight was a road game against Harvard in which Lehigh was losing 17-0 at halftime. The final score of that game was 21-19 Lehigh, an impressive comeback that required both an offensive explosion and a stalwart defense.

Winning the Patriot League earned them a trip to the FCS Playoffs and a first round game at the University of Northern Iowa. After a thrilling victory against UNI, the Mountain Hawks season ended against the University of Delaware, but not before posting one of the best seasons in Lehigh football history.

Leading the way for the team were senior co-captains Al Pierce and Will Rackley. In addition, junior Chris Lum took control of the starting QB position this season, demonstrating great poise and leadership skills all season long. Their leadership, combined with the effort everyone displayed on the field, turned into a remarkable season for the Mountain Hawks.

Lehigh Beats UNI in First Round of FCS Playoffs

A win against rival Lafayette College to end the regular season is usually the highlight of a Lehigh football season, but in 2010 that was just the beginning. A week after defeating the Leopards, Lehigh traveled to the University of Northern Iowa for the first round of the FCS playoffs.

Not given much of a chance by "the experts," the Mountain Hawks erased a 7-point half-time deficit en route to a stunning 14-7 victory in Iowa. It was a total team effort by the Mountain Hawks as they turned 3 interceptions and 4 sacks by their defense, a blocked field goal by their special teams, and over 320 yards of offense into a playoff win.

The Lehigh men's soccer team rode many exceptional wins this year en route to finishing the regular season in second place in the Patriot League. Finishing 4-2-1 in the Patriot League, the team recorded great wins against rivals Holy Cross, Lafayette and Army. The regular season results made the team very confident heading into the Patriot League playoffs.

Unfortunately, the final score was 2-0 in favor of American during the Patriot League semifinals, but despite their loss, the team feels that they can prepare themselves for next season and look to the future. The team will lose three seniors to graduation; however, a young core remains intact, eager to build on this season.

In addition to their success on the field, the team also boasted ten members being named to the Patriot League Honor Roll.

James Graf is the captain of this year's men's soccer squad, and he is also a starting defender. One of his achievements this season was scoring a goal that helped to lead the Mountain Hawks to their 500th victory in their game against Princeton. When asked about what he has taken away from this season, he said, "Being an athlete, you get a sense of accomplishment after fighting for a particular goal with your teammates. Although you do not always reach those goals, hopefully most of your teammates can look back and said they tried their hardest. I can say that I tried my hardest."

This past season ended on a high note for the Lehigh women's soccer team. After finishing the regular season with a great record of 9-4-4, the Mountain Hawks charged into the Patriot League playoffs. Riding the momentum of beating rival Lafayette in the season finale, the team beat Bucknell and Army in succession, both by a score of 1-0, to win the Patriot League Title.

By winning the Patriot League, Lehigh advanced to the NCAA Tournament to face #2 overall, the University of Virginia. Lehigh lost to UVA, but that hardly taints the rest of their accomplishments this season. Season highlights include being undefeated at home, as well as back-to-back wins over rivals Colgate and Bucknell to put them in a great position for playoffs. In addition to their on-the-field triumphs, the team also had 12 of their players nominated to the Patriot League Honor Roll. The team also received the NSCAA Team Academic Award.

Senior Spotlight: Natalie Hajnacki '11

Senior Natalie Hajnacki has a lot to be proud of this season. Not only did her team win the Patriot League, but Natalie was also named to the Patriot League Honor Roll, as well as receiving a spot on the All Patriot League second team. She is glad to have been able to share this experience with her team, saying, "I think the most important things that I have gotten out of my experience on LUWS were the friendships that I have formed and the memories that I will never forget. To be able to compete at such a high level with your best friends is something really special. The girls have become like sisters to me, and I will always have that."

volleyball

Lehigh's women's volleyball team experienced much success this season, posting a 13-13 overall record and a 7-7 Patriot League record. Although they fell just short of qualifying for the Patriot League playoffs, there is nothing upsetting about the final outcome of the season. In spite of a few close losses, the girls also came away with many decisive victories over league foes, including beating Lafayette on two separate occasions. In addition, their season ended on a positive note with a win over Navy.

With no graduating seniors on this year's team, they can look forward to building on this year's success together. Leading the way are sophomore Taylor Poole, freshman Courtney McCutcheon, and junior Angelika Kopacs. While Kopacs led the team in kills, McCutcheon was second in kills and digs and was named Patriot League Rookie of the Week twice. With all their players returning next year, the team is poised to continue this year's success.

Player Profile: Taylor Poole '13

Sophomore middle hitter Taylor Poole climbed the ladder of success this past season, earning a spot on the All-Patriot League First Team. She was second in the league and led the Mountain Hawks in hitting percentage and blocks. Also a reliable hitter, she posted an average of 2.44 kills per set. Poole was selected to the All-Tournament Teams at the Sacred Heart Invitational and the JMU Tournament. Although just a sophomore, Poole has already made her presence on the team felt, and the future looks bright for her and the rest of the women's volleyball team.

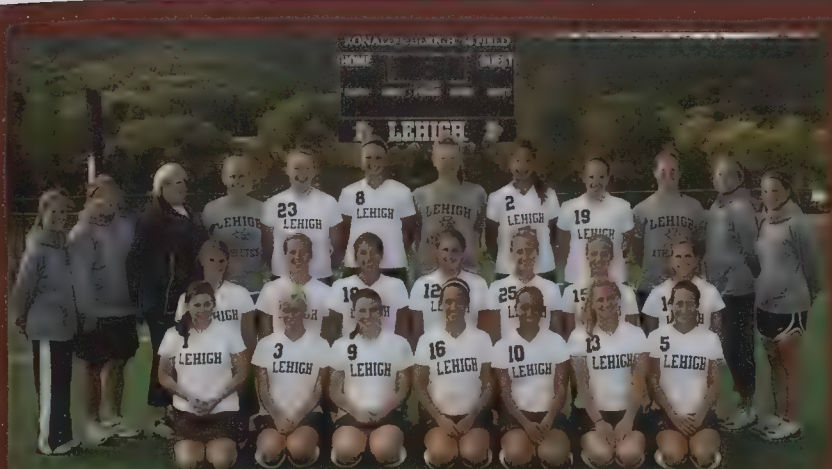

field hockey

The Lehigh Mountain Hawks field hockey team started the season off strong with a dominating 4-1 win against Sacred Heart, but struggled for consistency the rest of the season. Playing in a very competitive league, the team suffered many close losses, including four games that were decided by only one goal. With close games against St. Francis, Fairfield, St. Joseph's, La Salle, Cornell and Bucknell, the Mountain Hawks suffered many disappointing losses, which they had hoped would have gone the other way.

Despite those tough games, the girls ended their season on a high note with a 2-1 victory over Holy Cross. Ending with a total record of 3-13-0, the girls are working towards improving their record for next season. Graduating six seniors, including starting goalkeeper Jessica Miller, the team will need to find a way to replace this year's senior leadership next season.

The Mountain Hawks effort on the field also earned some individual accolades. Miller and junior Caitlin Donnelly were named to the All-Patriot League Field Hockey Team. In addition, more than half the team was placed on the Patriot League Academic Honor Roll.

With Donnelly, junior Madison Ingall, and sophomore Kimberly Eng, the three leading scorers this past season, all returning, the Mountain Hawks will look to rebound and improve their game for next season.

Senior Spotlight: Jessica Miller '11

Senior goalie Jess Miller and the rest of the LUFH team certainly didn't accomplish all they were hoping for this season; however, as Miller pointed out, "Even though we may not have had the outcomes we wished to have in many of our games, we still stayed together, and our team's dynamic was very strong." Despite the difficult season, there were still many highlights for Miller. Including the season finale against Holy Cross. "It was special for many different reasons: it was a Patriot League game, and it was Senior Day," said Miller. "It felt incredible to end the season and my career with a win, and I also think it was important to end with that because it will give the returning players momentum going into next season."

men's cross country

The Lehigh men's cross country team started their 2010 season strong with a first place finish in the Lehigh Invitational. Just three weeks later, the team won a dual meet against close rival Lafayette College, 17-46. In the NCAA Mid-Atlantic meet, one of the biggest of the season, Lehigh entered its top seven runners: Evans Kosgei, '11; Andrew Jervis, '11; Steve Sample, '11; Evan Flach, '12; Jimmy Miller, '14; Sam Bernitt, '14; and Tyler Mueller, '14. The team fell slightly short of their goals, however, finishing 15 out of 28, tying its 15th place finish from the year before. Despite this, Evans Kosgei placed well enough in the meet to qualify for the NCAA National Championships.

The highlight of the men's season came when Kosgei finished 12 out of 246 at the NCAA National Championships. This was the highest-ever regional finish for a Lehigh athlete, and was the Lehigh men's cross country team's first-ever qualifier for the National Championships. "He is an outstanding student and is an Academic All American," added Coach Todd Etters.

The cross country team ended the 2010 season fifth in the Patriot League, one step below its fourth place finish the year before. "Our sport is so much about consistency, discipline and hard work," Etters said. "We had all of those this year, and our seniors and captains did a great job of showing the rest of the team the right approach. We will be ready next year to get back in to the top three of the league."

Senior Spotlight: Evans Kosgei '11

Cross country superstar Evans Kosgei turned out another phenomenal season of running this fall. After a time of 30:06 earned him a 13th place finish at the 10k regional meet, he became the team's first-ever qualifier for the NCAA National Championships. He went on to compete in the championships, placing 142 out of 246. "It was always my goal to be Lehigh's first cross country runner to qualify for the NCAA Cross Country Championships. It was the best feeling I have had in my running career," Kosgei said. As a student in the IBE program, Kosgei will return to Lehigh in the fall for a fifth year. "My hope for next season is to win the Patriot League Championships, finish in the top five at regionals, and finish as an All-American athlete at the NCAA Cross Country Championships next fall," Kosgei said.

The Lehigh women's cross country team celebrated a successful season that was "tremendously better than last year," according to Coach Debbie Utesch. They placed sixth out of 18 in the IONA Meet of Champs, 24th out of 41 in the Lehigh Paul Short Run held at Goodman Campus, and 17th out of 31 at the Penn State National Invite. The women also produced a 25-34 win over close rival Lafayette College, making it Lehigh's sixth straight dual-meet win against Lafayette.

The team had a solid showing throughout the fall with the exception of the Patriot League Championship, where they placed seventh out of eight. The women later redeemed themselves by placing ninth out of 29 at the NCAA Mid-Atlantic, their second-highest finish ever. Katherine Pierce '12 shined as the team's number one runner in the meet, finishing only four places away from qualifying for the NCAA National Championships.

Utesch attributed much of the team's success this season to its cohesiveness, saying, "We had a very talented group of focused women, and we narrowed our focus by setting weekly goals and weekly commitments, such as getting eight hours of sleep every night on a certain week, carrying water bottles to hydrate, and meeting with sport psychologists to do some neat, team-building strategic exercises."

The cross country women look forward to continuing their winning momentum and competing equally as hard next year.

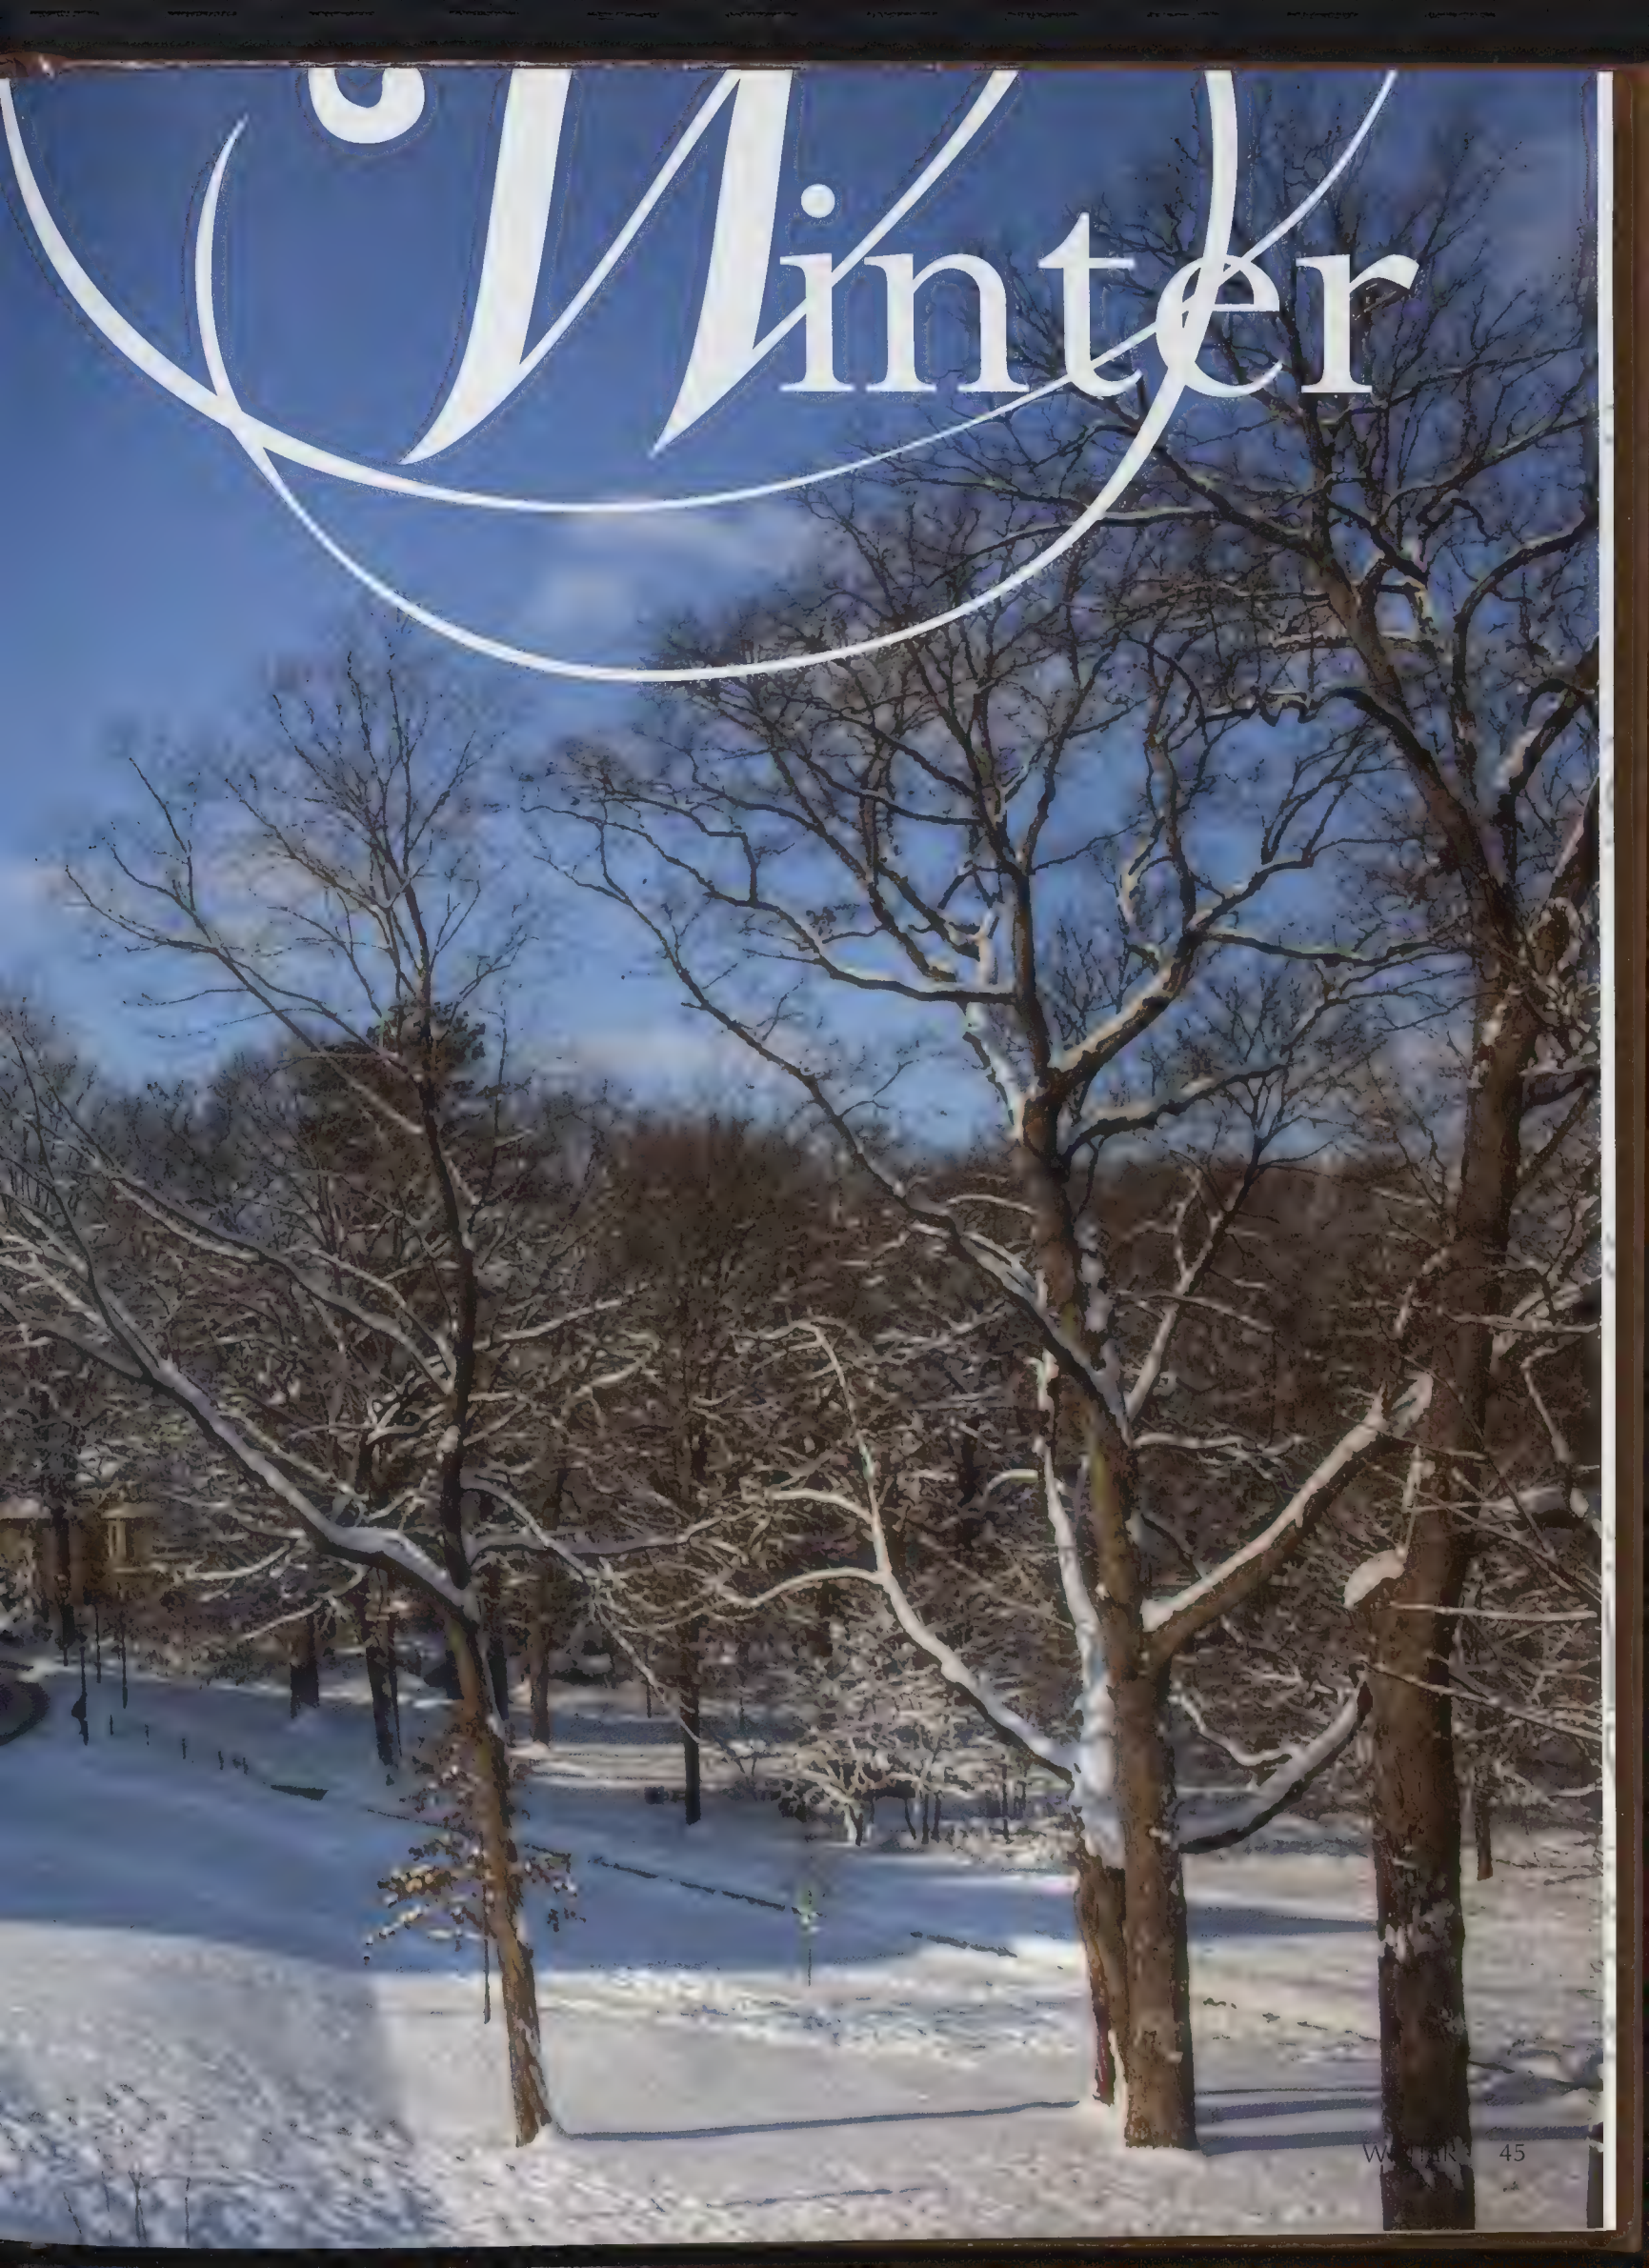

Clockwise from above: Junior Katherine Pierce leads the Mountain Hawks charge. The Mountain Hawks run strong during a race. Lehigh and Lafayette race to the finish line.

Senior Spotlight: Andrea Mascaro '11

Andrea shined as a competitor, teammate and leader, while serving as a four-year varsity letter winner and eventual co-captain of Lehigh's women's cross country team. One of her proudest performances of her cross-country career came this year at the Patriot League Championship, where she clocked 21:37 in the 6k run. Another proud moment was placing ninth as a team at the 2010 NCAA Mid-Atlantic meet. For Mascaro, ending her final season on the cross-country team was bittersweet. "I've learned a lot about myself from being on the team. I learned that through hard times, you can get through anything. I'm going to miss the tight bond that I had with my teammates, and being around my best friends every day. Of course my coach, Debbie Utesch, too. I wouldn't have gone as far as I did without her."

100 years of business

MEAGAN McDONALD, '11

What started as simply a four-year business program in the College of Arts & Sciences has grown into one of the leading business programs in the country. Originally created in 1910, Lehigh's business program was first offered as an alternative for students less interested in the University's engineering and science curricula. What originally started as 16 students grew exponentially in the next decade. "During the first ten years of its existence at Lehigh, the business program was massively popular," said Paul R. Brown, the current dean of the College of Business and Economics. "It was so popular that by the 1930s the college was fully established and had its own dean." This is Dean Brown's fourth year as dean of the college, and in that time period he has seen it grow tremendously, similar to the growth the college saw at the start of its existence. Student applications to the business college are at an all time high in the past five years, and they are continuing to grow each year. The college has also expanded its curriculum and classes to address current events and challenges, such as globalization, healthcare, the war in Iraq and business ethics. Brown says, "We are unquestionably in the top 5% of all business schools, which is great. Our goal for the future is to be in the top 1%. We want to be the best. We want to compete with Wharton." When asked about plans for the future, Dean Brown foresees growth and success: "We will continue to grow and expand in the coming years. This will help us attract even stronger students, and Lehigh's reputation will continue to skyrocket."

MAURA KELLY, '14

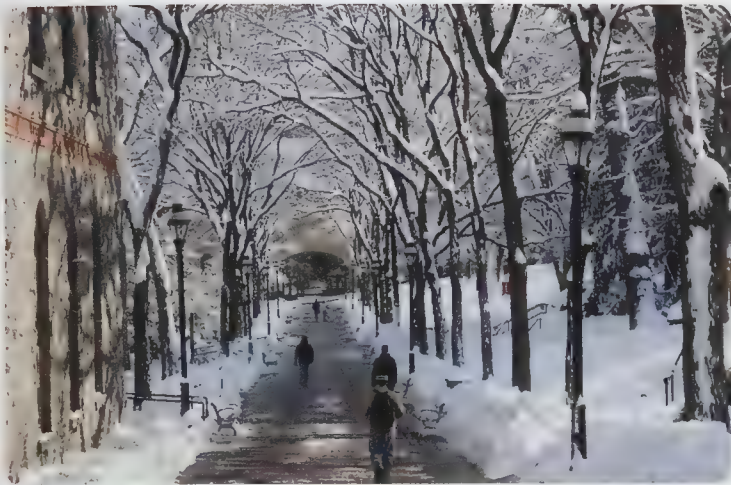

The STEPS building opened in the fall of 2010, the culmination of a project started in early 2007. Bohlin Cywinski Jackson from Philadelphia was chosen as the architect of the program, and the firm is no stranger to Lehigh, having designed Sayre Park Village, Campus Square, and the Alumni parking garage and entryway. Green features of the building include the use of natural light, water conservation both in construction and building use, insulation, limited waste and the materials used to build the facility. Part of the planning process of the building involved feedback and concerns from the student body. Many students expressed concern that the new building would occupy the sacred frisbee field, so they hoped some space would be preserved. This strong concern altered the design of the building, which was constructed in an L shape to preserve some of the green space. The building is also one story tall on Packard Avenue so that the green space will remain in sunlight. Faculty, other than wanting labs and classrooms, wanted informal gathering spaces within the building. These spaces would be key for students working in groups and teams, as well as to foster exchange between faculty and students. It was also deemed important that the students bond with the building and these gathering spaces were conducive for this as well. Although the STEPS building houses the EES department, environmental engineering, environmental initiative and undergraduate intro labs for biology and chemistry, all students are encouraged to use the space that the new building provides. Whether it is to take advantage of the informal gathering spaces inside, or just to admire the integrated art work throughout the building, everyone should go check out STEPS!

...and then there was snow

Digging cars out, shoveling sidewalks, and the occasional ice-slip became part of our regular routine. This season showcased a true Bethlehem winter with plenty of snowfall, ice, wind, and dangerous driving and walking conditions. This year, Lehigh actually called two snow days and held several delays much to the surprise of the entire community.

lehigh eats: campus hotspots

Brew Works

An amazing pub that has great bar food and an incredible selection of homemade beers. This large restaurant is great for groups and always satisfies.

Mama Nina's

A bigger version of Sal's, this northside restaurant is a great place to go and enjoy your favorite Italian dish. There is always a line to enter but the staff will always bring out garlic bread and pizza if the wait time is long. Don't forget to come with an appetite, and do remember to bring home your leftovers.

Deja Brew

A local coffeehouse and deli with just about anything you can imagine. The peanut butter balls are a fan favorite!

Blue Sky Café

The perfect spot for an amazing breakfast or lunch. Blue sky is known for their giant pancakes and delicious omelets. Get here early because it is guaranteed to be crowded.

Billy's Diner

A favorite breakfast and lunch spot on the northside for Lehigh students. Everyone knows the owner Billy and his Greek mother. Come hungry for the huge breakfast plates that each has a creative twist to them.

Sal's Old World

A favorite restaurant for many Lehigh students due to the free wine, garlic knots, salads, heaping portions, and cannolis included with every meal. This small cozy restaurant is the perfect place for a date or a get together with friends.

Euro Yogurt

A great place for students to find their favorite treats. Euro Yogurt features original and pomegranate frozen yogurt with an array of toppings. The store also offers smoothies and blends and has recently merged with the Hard Bean Café to provide more snacks for its customers.

Asian Bistro

A favorite dinner spot for Lehigh students due to their BYOB policy. Asian Bistro is known for their creative specialty sushi rolls and their cooked entrees. Many students will say that some of their most favorite nights began with a dinner here.

The Lehigh men's wrestling team kept their home match winning streak alive for another year, garnering a 15-6 overall record this season. The team had dominating wins over EIWA opponents Bucknell, Harvard, Brown, American and Penn, while going point for point in close losses to Virginia Tech, Navy and Penn State. With a strong lineup of powerful wrestlers, many of which are returning next season, the team looks to be a dominating force both now and in the future.

Not only did the wrestling team produce an impressive season record, but they also crowned the first national champion since 2004 and came away with eighth place at the NCAA championships. Junior Zach Rey won the national title at 285, becoming Lehigh's 27th individual national champion and first heavyweight champion since 1936. Sophomore and EIWA Champion Robert Hamlin also made it to the finals, but had to settle for the silver after a tight 5-2 loss. Overall, Lehigh qualified eight wrestlers for the NCAA Championships, five of which made it through to the round of 16, and three of which placed (junior Brandon Hatchett earned a seventh place finish). These stats earned the team its first top-ten finish at the NCAA Championships since 2006.

Player Profile: Zach Rey '12

Zach Rey became the 27th Lehigh wrestler to win a national championship and the first heavyweight champion since 1936, ending his season with a 34-1 record. His only loss was against the wrestler he ended up beating for the national title. "It would have been great to win an NCAA Championship without the added revenge, but it was nice to avenge the loss," Rey commented. "Just like this year, next year I will only be happy with a national championship, and my love of the sport will drive me to work hard and become a better wrestler and competitor."

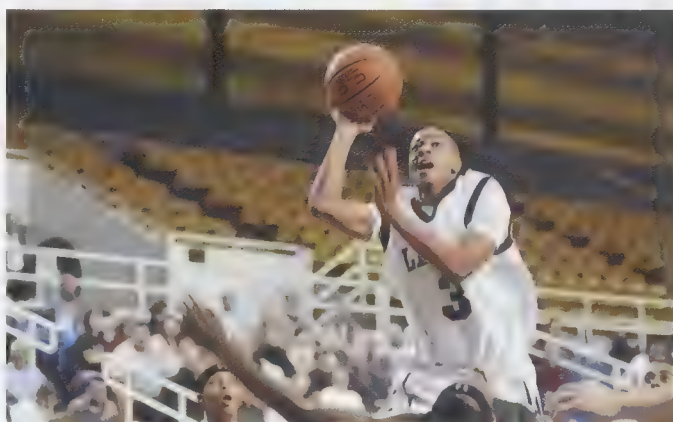

men's basketball

Coming off an incredible season last year, with a Patriot League Championship as well as an appearance in the 2010 NCAA tournament, the men's basketball squad had yet another great season. The Mountain Hawks again gained a spot in the Patriot League Tournament, and easily knocked out Navy in the quarter-finals. The team suffered a heart-wrenching loss to number one seeded Bucknell in a game that was in the end determined by only a single basket. Lehigh played extremely well against the eventual Patriot League Champions, battling hard against a Bucknell team they had lost to twice in the regular season.

Despite this loss, the Mountain Hawks had a very commendable season, with highlights such as a two victories over rival Lafayette, as well as a three game win streak mid-season. Ending their season with a record of (16-15), the Hawks can certainly look forward to having another great season next year.

Senior Spotlight: Michael Ojo '11

Michael Ojo, senior guard of the Lehigh men's basketball team, has been a standout player in the 2010-2011 season. Putting up a career-high 33 points in the Hawk's game against NJIT, Ojo also passed the 500 point mark in his career. His stellar performance in the team's game against Navy helped them to make a comeback for the win. Against Stonybrook, Ojo made the game-tying shot in overtime to help put the Mountain Hawks on top. His presence on the court will be missed, and he will leave the team with big shoes to fill.

women's basketball

The Lehigh women's basketball team had quite an amazing season this year, making it all the way to the semi-finals of the Patriot League Tournament, and then to the Women's National Invitational Tournament.

Leading up to the semi-final game against American, the Mountain Hawks had a 10-game winning streak, including a win in the quarter finals over rival Lafayette. The Lady Hawks ended the season with a 21-11 record overall.

Despite a very tough loss to American in the Patriot League Tournament, the squad went to the Women's National Invitation Tournament. The Mountain Hawks took on the St. Bonaventure Bonnies in the first round of the tournament in a thrilling game. Unfortunately, the Lady Hawks fell to the Bonnies in the first round, but they still had a great season overall, appearing in the post season for their fourth straight year in a row.

Senior Spotlight: Erica Prosser '11

At the conclusion of 2010-2011 season of Mountain Hawk basketball, senior guard Erica Prosser has a lot to be proud of. Prosser was named to the Patriot League All-Tournament Team as well as being named to the first-team All Patriot League. Leading the league in assists and steals, Prosser was named Preseason Player of the Year for the Patriot League, as well as MVP for the Christmas City Classic for the second year in a row. Another of Prosser's career highlights was that she scored her 1,000th point this season against Akron.

women's track & field

The women's track and field team found success early on in the 2011 season, defeating cross-town rival Lafayette in a 101-80 win. Another great showing for the Mountain Hawks came at the Penn Relays and Lehigh Games, during which senior Emily Settle set a personal best, as well as a school best, in the hammer throw with a distance of 55.13 meters.

In the last meet of the season, the Patriot League Championships, the women finished third and had two Patriot League champions of the meet; junior Katherine Pierce won the 10,000 meter run in 36:22.58, and junior Alexandra Doersam reached a distance of 6.03 meters in the long jump, a Patriot League Championship record. All in all, the women's track and field team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons to date, including its best ever finish at a Patriot League Championship. The team is poised to build on this year's success next season.

Player Profile: Alexandra Doersam '12

Alexandra Doersam enjoyed a tremendous junior season. The sprinting and jumping specialist put on her first star showing at the Lafayette Invitational, helping her team to first place in the 4x100 medley relay. Doersam also recorded a leap of 5.55 meters in the long jump event for her second first-place finish of the meet. In the Patriot League Championships, Doersam cracked First-Team All-Patriot League. Upon entering the weekend, Doersam held a personal best of 5.68 meters in the long jump, but soon shattered this record by landing 5.97 meters and finally 6.03 meters, a new personal best.

The men's track and field team has a lot to be proud of surrounding their efforts this season. After many impressive individual and team efforts in early months of the season, the Mountain Hawks put it all together to put in a great all-around effort in the Patriot League Championships held at Lafayette College. Lehigh finished fourth in the championship, beating out rivals Lafayette, American and Holy Cross. It was a great run by the Mountain Hawks, who also collected a couple of individual awards at the championships. Freshman Patrick Ciez was named Patriot League rookie of the meet, and Senior Steve Tutunjian was named Male Field Athlete of the Meet.

Lehigh also received strong performances year-round by Senior Evans Kosegi, including his Patriot League record setting performance in the 10,000 meter run. The Mountain Hawks will have a lot of seniors graduating, but if recent performances are any indication, this team will be constantly getting better.

Senior Spotlight: Steve Tutunjian '11

Senior Steve Tutunjian has had a tremendous Lehigh track and field career. He finished strong with an excellent effort in the 2011 Patriot League Championships in which he not the triple-jump event and was named Male Field Athlete of the meet. In addition to his on the field accomplishments, he was also very successful in the classroom, being name to the Patriot League Honor Roll in both 2010 and 2011.

men's swimming & diving

The men's swimming and diving team completed a season that was nothing short of stellar. The team harnessed a winning record of 8-2, defeating former league champions such as West Chester University and Marist College, as well as close rival Lafayette College.

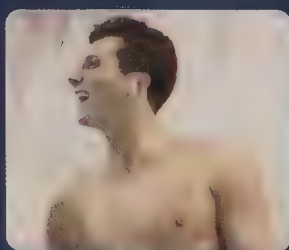

"We lost a strong senior class. However we did very well to cover the loss and keep moving forward," said Head Coach Rob Herb. "I think we exceeded my expectations." The men's season culminated in success at the Patriot League Championships, February 17-19, at Bucknell University's Kinney Natatorium, where the team took fourth place. Highlights of the meet were junior Kevin Shoemaker's time of 1:51.46 in the 200fly, and sophomore Alex Aboud's 4:02.06 finish in the 400IM. Both were new school records. Herb attributed the team's success to each individual athlete's "hard work, dedication, and desire."

Senior Spotlight: Andrew DiPietro '11

Senior Andrew DiPietro, a four-year letter winner on Lehigh's swimming and diving team, finished his final season with a lot to be proud of. He received the Scholar-Athlete Award, one of the program's highest honors. Also, DiPietro was named to the All-Patriot League second team for his first place finish at the Patriot League Championships, in which he clocked 1:51.27 in the B final of the 100 yard backstroke. "After a long day of events, I swam it holding nothing back, and won my heat by over a second," said DiPietro, "That was probably my favorite race ever."

women's swimming & diving

The Lehigh women's swimming and diving team finished the season with a 3-1 Patriot League record and a 4-4 overall record this season. Earning victories over rival Lafayette and Army in close-scoring meets, the team finished the season with a .500 record and hopes to build on that for next season.

While some meets didn't quite go the Mountain Hawks' way, they still placed women in the top spots for every race. Freshman Meredith Bayer and sophomore Emily DiDonato consistently placed in the top three for their respective events, while the 200 and 400 medley relay teams won multiple times throughout the season.

At the Patriot League Championships, the Mountain Hawks finished in sixth place after three days of hard work in the pool. During that time, sophomore Brooke Smalley broke the eleven-year record for the 100 yard butterfly. Bayer also landed a spot in the A final and ended with an eighth place overall finish in the 400 individual medley, while the 800 freestyle relay team took third and the 200 medley relay and the 400 freestyle relay teams both earned sixth place in the A final.

Although the season ended with that sixth place finish, the future looks bright for this team of young swimmers. With only three graduating seniors on this year's team and some very talented ladies returning, this team will look to build for the next season.

Senior Spotlight: Kristen Kennan '11

Senior Kristen Keenan led her team to a 4-4 overall record this season and a sixth place finish at the Patriot League Championships. Keenan earned a sixteenth place finish in the 100 individual freestyle event and swam on the 800 and 400 freestyle relay teams at the Patriot League Finals. "The highlight of the season was definitely the 800 Freestyle Relay, our highest scoring relay for as long as I can remember," Keenan said of ending the season, and her collegiate career, on a high note. "I think my biggest motivation was the vision of the end goal."

lehigh style

ALLISON MOTOLA, '14

The Lehigh school year of 2010-2011 was full of fashion trends, both old and new, that swept through the entire campus. Starting back in September, girls were commonly seen walking around campus with Ray-Ban aviators and a leather jacket. Another popular item common amongst the women of campus were "jeggings," a best-of-both-worlds combination of the comfort of leggings and the visual appeal that jeans bring to the table. Boys, on the other hand, loved graphic hoodies or flannel shirts, commonly seen with Nike Dunks or Reebok Pumps.

Once the winter rolled around, girls turned to fur vests, a popular article of clothing from the past. Along with this look, girls were commonly seen with infinity scarves to bear the wind on a chilly winter day. Whether in the rain, or just for some traction in the snow, Hunter rainboots were seen in almost any color possible, along with various colored or patterned Welly Socks to provide some extra warmth. As for boys, a pair of Timberland boots kept them warm and allowed them to trek through the snow as well.

The Chilean miners were finally rescued after being stuck for 69 days. All 33 men were rescued. Lehigh students were happy to hear that the miners were safe. Some students even dressed the part for Halloween.

January

The Middle East protests begin and are still occurring as this book is published. The turmoil has hit Tunisia, Egypt, Libya, Jordan, Bahrain, Saudi Arabia and Syria. Students are happy that freedom of speech is occurring in these countries, but it is unclear what the global impact of these uprisings will be.

April

The royal wedding between Prince William and Kate Middleton took place on a lovely Friday morning. Many students woke up at 4am to watch the coverage live and to get a glimpse of the action. Other students decided to sleep in and watch online clips.

May

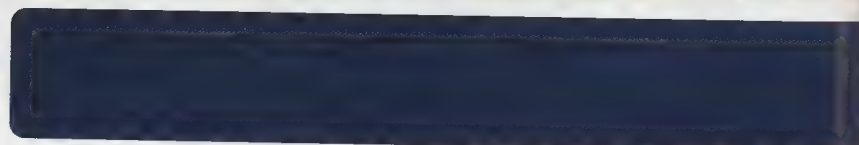

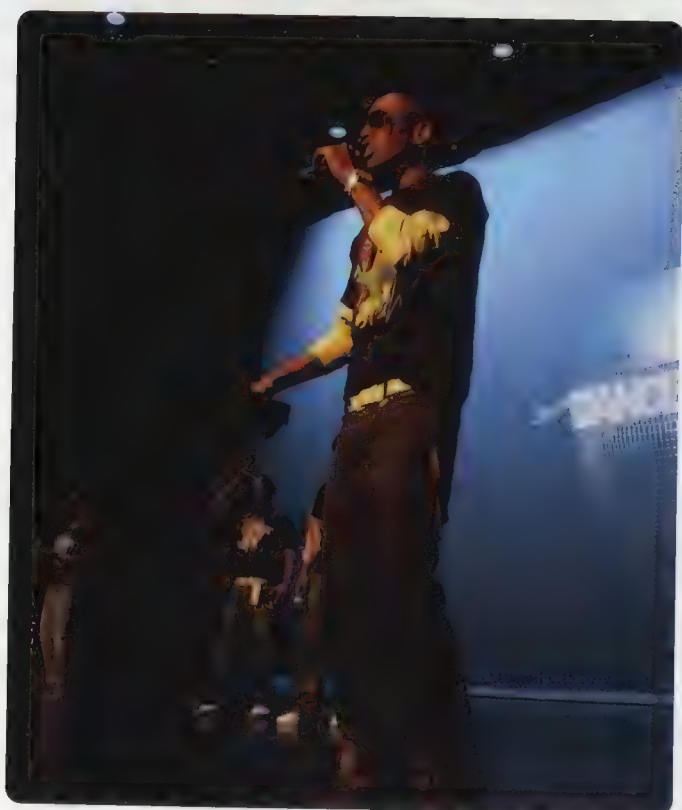

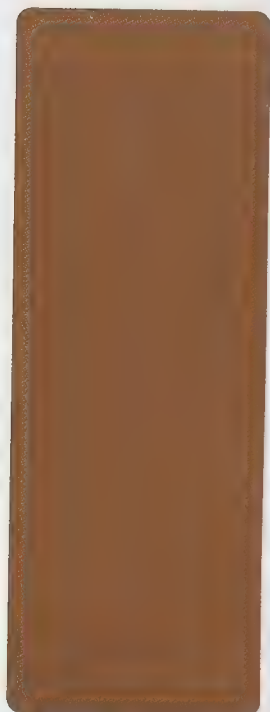

To close the school year, President Obama reported that Osama Bin Laden was killed by a team of Navy SEALs. Celebrations were seen all over the United States, especially on university campuses. Some students were relieved and felt the need to party and celebrate the demise of a terrible man. Others felt that no matter what Bin Laden had done in the past, it was wrong to celebrate the killing of a human being.

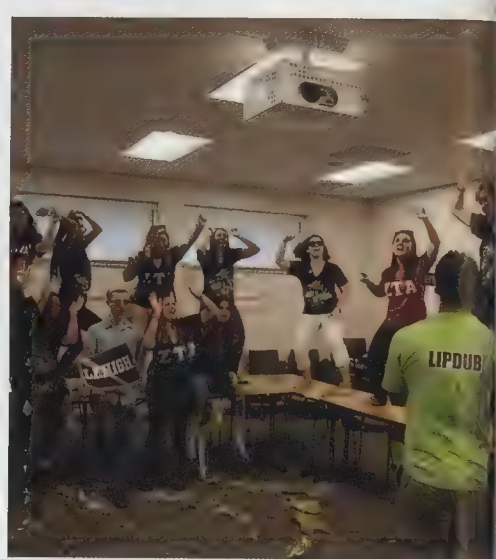

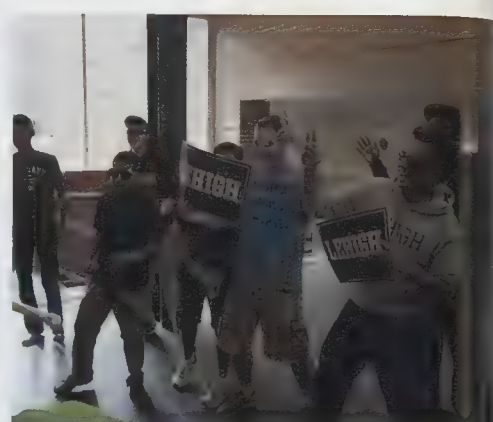

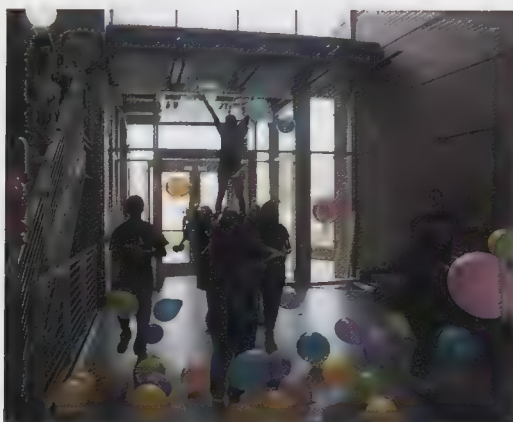

dancefest

Sixteen dance groups brought the Lehigh community together as they performed to a crowded Baker Hall in Zoellner Arts Center Saturday at Dancefest. The dancing ranged from hip-hop and step to salsa, and everywhere in between. Greg Martin, '11, member of the Dancefest executive board, estimated that about 1,000 people attended the event. "The place was pretty packed," he said. "Dancefest is a great event to showcase the talent we have here at Lehigh and the Lehigh Valley," Steffany Diaz, '13, said. "It's a really fun event to attend and support your friends and watch performances you wouldn't otherwise." The performances included Born Into The Arts, the professional dance company of Dominick Boyd, who has been featured in performances at the Grammy's and New York City's Radio City Music Hall. Brian Castell, '12, director of Dancefest, said this year's show was a lot bigger than the show last year. "We had a lot more of everything involved," he said.

lehigh lipdub

GABRIELLE LA FORCE, '12

On April 17th, students came to show their pride by making Lehigh's second LipDub to the song "Dynamite" by Taio Cruz. Zach Carter '11 and Fiona Lee '12 made the first LipDub last year and after a great response, Carter and Lee decided to take on the challenge again. This year, instead of making the video go all through campus, it was shot only in and around the new STEPS building. Emily Rojer '11 said, "It's a great idea to boost school spirit and unite the campus." All different groups of students participated, from sports teams and Greek houses to a variety of clubs. Even individual students were able to participate to make their LipDub debut.

LINDSAY MILLER, '11

On April 10, the annual Sundaze concert event occurred at Sayre Field. This year, University Productions brought Lehigh the talents of Mac Miller and Wiz Khalifa, known best for his hit single, "Black and Yellow." The opening acts were Scott Pine & the Conifers and Mansions on the Moon. Despite the cloudy forecast, the concert was packed with Lehigh students. It was a great way to enjoy one of the final weekends of the school year. A highlight for many was the Ben & Jerry's truck giving away free ice cream. Some students were close to the stage dancing along while others watched the events from the hill and enjoyed the music. Overall, it was a great Sundaze!

The men's baseball team finished its first winning season since 2005, with an overall record of 24-21. "The team's success was directly related to the play and leadership of our senior class," said Head Coach Sean Leary. "This group definitely has left their mark on the program. However, we have confidence in our returning players and incoming freshmen. We believe they will work hard to build on the successes of the past two seasons." Captains Billy Goldman '11, Mike Lebo '11, Brendan McGaheeran '11, Kevin Mihalik '11, and nine other seniors led the team to victory after victory. The highlight of the season, according to coaches and players, was Lehigh's 3-1 series win against Army, the defending Patriot League champs. Several players also had standout seasons. Goldman ended his baseball career with 197 hits, fifth highest in program history. Senior Andrew Russell finished with 191 hits and 18 homeruns, the second most in the school's history.

Senior Spotlight: Mike Lebo '11

Looking back on his baseball career, senior pitcher and captain Mike Lebo has truly transformed. "As a freshman, I'd consider myself a thrower," Lebo said. "Now, four years later, I can say I learned how to be a complete pitcher." Lebo is one of the most passionate players on the team, and he strives to be as motivating and supportive as possible. "It has been rewarding when you can provide that leadership and the team succeeds," Lebo said.

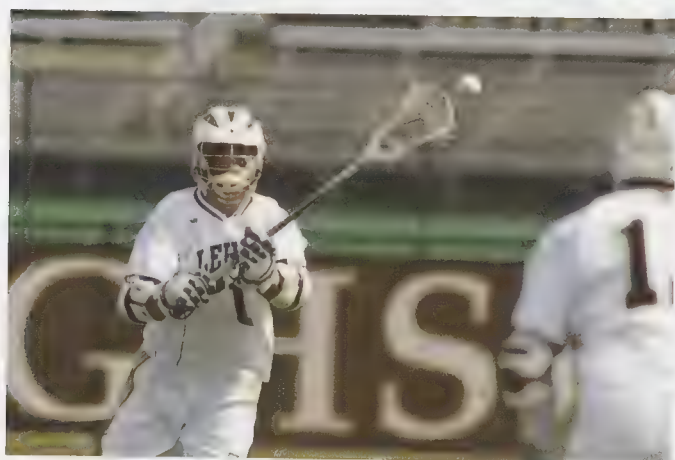

men's lacrosse

The men's lacrosse team did not have an easy start to its season, plagued by tragedy with the loss of former teammate, Shane Donlan '09. Despite this, the team regrouped to garner its best start to a season since 2006, winning key games over Detroit Mercy, Saint Joseph's, and a historic 14-10 battle against Navy, its first win against the Midshipmen since 1913.

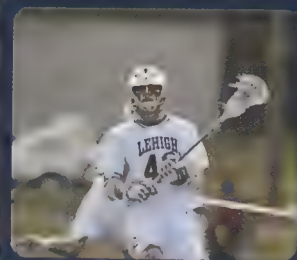

Crucial wins against fellow Patriot League teams Holy Cross and Lafayette secured Lehigh a trip to the Patriot League Tournament for the first time since 2006. Lehigh lost to Bucknell in the semifinal round of the tournament, but the Hawks finished the season strong with four All-Patriot League honorees: Ryan Snyder '13, Dante Fantoni '13, Richard Bradley '11, and Jonathan Stumpf '11.

Senior Spotlight: Jonathan Stumpf '11

Jonathan Stumpf is the ultimate triple threat: a tremendous athlete, a standout student and a respected leader. In his senior year Stumpf, one of the team's three captains, made the starting lineup for the second straight season, stood fifth on the team in scoring and completed his second-career hat trick against Holy Cross. He was also one of ten finalists selected for the Lowe's Senior CLASS Award. Stumpf boasted an impressive 3.88 GPA in the Integrated Business and Engineering Honors Program.

The Lehigh women's lacrosse team finished the season with a record of 10 wins and seven losses. During the regular season, the team beat every Patriot League opponent it faced, including beating rival Lafayette convincingly 18-9. The two biggest wins of the season also came against Patriot League rivals Bucknell and Holy Cross by the scores of 19-2 and 15-4 respectively. Their undefeated Patriot League record put them in a semi-final matchup against Navy in the Patriot League tournament. Although Lehigh beat Navy just 5 days prior, the result didn't go the Mountain Hawks' way in the tournament, and their season came to an abrupt end.

Leading the way was senior Lauren Dykstra, who scored 72 goals in her senior season. Her presence will definitely be missed, but with only Dykstra and senior Allison Thomas graduating, much of the team's young core will be back.

Senior Spotlight: Lauren Dykstra '11

When Lehigh's season ended in the Patriot League semi-finals, it marked the end of a storied career for senior Lauren Dykstra. Dykstra scored 257 goals in her Lehigh career, which is not only a new Lehigh and Patriot League record, but also ranks 6th all time in the NCAA. Her performance on the field led to many accolades, including winning all four of the major Patriot League awards over her career: Rookie of the Year, Offensive Player of the Year, Defensive Player of the Year, and Midfield Player of the Year. Dykstra has a lot to be proud of, including leading the team with 72 goals in just 17 games in her senior season.

The Lehigh women's golf team had a successful year, finishing well in each invitational they participated in. The ladies competed in four tournaments per season. The fall season was highlighted by a fourth place finish at the Bucknell Invitational, in which sophomore Chelsea Michalek and senior Emily Endres tied for seventh overall, and a fifth place finish at the Rutgers Invitational, where freshman Crystal Lee ended in eighth place overall. The Mountain Hawks kicked off their spring season by garnering the first place team title and winning the Sunshine Spring Classic in Miami, Florida over spring break. Lee led the way once again with a second place overall finish, followed by Michalek's seventh place finish. The team then completed the season on a high note by posting a fifth place finish at the Roar-EE Invitational in New York. Lee ended in seventh place, while Michalek and fellow sophomore Ginette Schapira tied for eighteenth.

Low scores from Michalek and Lee propelled the team to victories throughout the year. However, consistent golfing from all team members kept Lehigh in contention at every tournament. With many talented underclassmen returning next season and only one senior graduating this year, good things can be expected from this team in the future.

Senior Spotlight: Emily Endres '11

Emily Endres, the only graduating senior on this year's women's golf team, finished her career with an impressive record. This year alone she tied for a seventh place individual finish at the Bucknell Invitational, while helping the Mountain Hawks to team titles during the season. Throughout her career at Lehigh, she was the top individual finisher on the team several times and consistently scored low at tournaments to propel the team to impressive finishes. Although she leaves the team after four years of competing, her leadership and competitiveness will live on with the younger members.

men's golf

Head Coach Henry D'Alberto, Coach Ted Banko, Tim Rosenhouse, Duncan Zeiders, Andrew Arnold, Doug Marcincin, Alex DiClemente, Sean Keller, Dwight D'Iorio, Assistant Coach Joe Zelechowski.

The Lehigh Men's Golf team had several ups and downs this season. The team finished in the top 5 in half of the tournaments they competed in, but also had a few disappointing results in some other tournaments. The team finished the season with a 5th place finish at the Patriot League Championship. They also had strong finishes in the Bucknell Invitational, Lehigh Valley Collegiate, and the Lafayette Invitational.

The team was led by senior captain, and four year Lehigh golfer, Duncan Zeiders. The team had a lot of positive that they can take from this season, and they look primed to have similar accomplishments next season.

Senior Spotlight: Duncan Zeiders '11

Senior Duncan Zeiders has been very strong for Lehigh's Men's golf team. A four year player, and captain his senior year, Duncan has led the team well both on and off the course. Some of his accomplishments on the course include finishing 7th overall in the Patriot League tournament in his sophomore season, and a 15th place finish in the Kelly Cutshall Invitational his junior year. Additionally, he was named to the Academic All-Patriot League team his senior season.

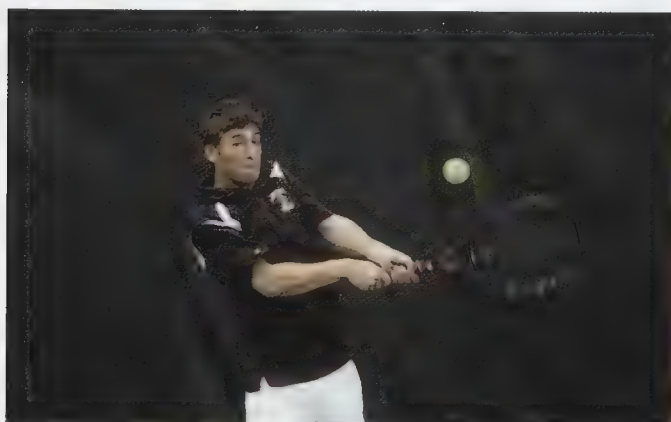

men's tennis

The Lehigh men's tennis team experienced an outstanding season this year, ending with a record of 15-7 and an appearance in the post-season Patriot League Tournament. A highlight of the season was when the Mountain Hawks held a 6 match win streak at home, beating teams such as Georgetown and Richmond. The team also bested longtime rival Lafayette 7-0 at home.

The Mountain Hawks succeeded in making it into the Patriot League tournament, first facing Holy Cross in the quarter finals. Unfortunately, the team fell in the championship match to Army, but still won second place in the league. The Mountain Hawks can certainly look for a strong performance next season as they continue to perform well against their opponents in the Patriot League.

Senior Spotlight: Troy List '11

Troy List and the other three seniors on the tennis team were able to overcome difficulties and end their careers with the best season record in recent history. List earned his fourth straight All-Patriot League honor this season by earning a first-team selection. Playing in the number one singles spot and part of the number one doubles team, he was named Patriot League Player of the Month several times throughout his career. List and his teammates were a part of a season "that will forever change the face of Lehigh tennis," List says. "I am proud to have been a part of it. I will never forget the magical run we had this year."

women's tennis

The Lehigh women's tennis team ended their season with a 6-13 record, appearing in the Patriot League Tournament after the regular season. The Lady Hawks defeated arch-rival Lafayette in a tough match, just edging them out 4-3 in their last match of the regular season.

The team also boasted wins over teams such as St. Josephs, Hunter and Colgate. However, the team fell to Colgate after they were pitted against them in the Patriot League Tournament Quarterfinals. The Lady Hawks can look to rebuild in the off-season and come back better and stronger to take on the rest of the League next season.

Player Profile: Elizabeth Piscitelli '12

Elizabeth Piscitelli has been an asset and a leader for the Lehigh. Being the oldest on the squad as only a junior, she has been given the role of mentor. Throughout her varsity career, Piscitelli has worked hard during every match. In her freshman year, she played mostly at number four singles and second doubles. She pulled out five victories at the number four singles spot. She was also named to the Patriot League Honor Roll in her sophomore season. She has remained competitive, playing at the top three singles positions as well as the first doubles spot.

women's rowing

The Lehigh Women's Crew Team put forth their best effort this season under head coach Brian Conley. The squad finished sixth overall in the Patriot League Championship Regatta. The team improved on their points earned from last season, nearly doubling them. A highlight on the season was the Women's ninth place finish in the Open Four event, one of the biggest improvements of the season. The other boats placed fourteenth and sixteenth in the field of thirty-four boats. The Mountain Hawks also posted five race wins at the Frostbite Regatta in Philadelphia, the Women's Freshman Four contributing the first big win. As a bonus, the Lehigh racers beat out rival Lafayette in every race at the Frostbite Regatta.

Senior Spotlight: Katherine Bazergui '11

As a member of the Lehigh Women's Rowing Team, Katherine Bazergui has had a great four years, and has achieved a range of honors. Starting out as a freshman, Katherine finished first in the Frostbite Regatta in both the Freshman Eight and the Lightweight Eight. Katherine was also named to the Dean's list her freshman year. As a sophomore, Bazergui maintained excellence finishing first again at the Frostbite Regatta in the Women's Varsity Eight. In her final season at Lehigh, Katherine again had a first place finish at the Frostbite Regatta, as well as earning the Student Academic Achievement Award.

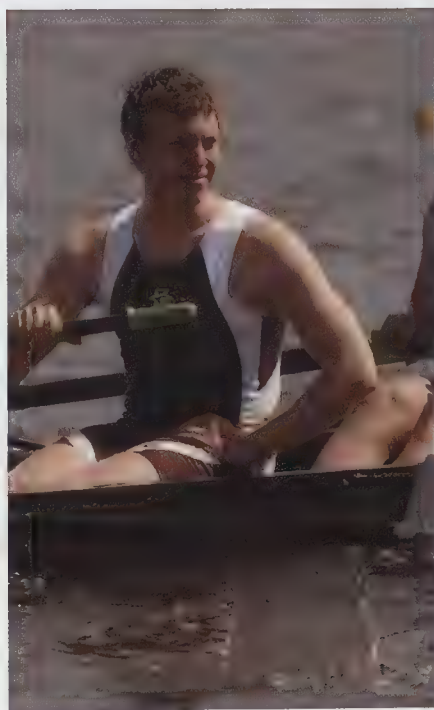

men's rowing

The Lehigh men's rowing team had an exceptional season this year with a new head coach, Brian Conley. With a strong freshman class, the squad was able to improve upon many of their finishes from last season. A highlight on the season was the Lehigh River Cup against rival school Lafayette.

The Mountain Hawks bested the Leopards in a close match up, winning 35-26. In the Knecht Cup, the Lehigh Freshman Eight advanced to the petite final, just missing the cutoff for the grand final. Despite this, the Freshman Eight went on to win third place in the petit final. At the final regatta of the season, the Dad Vail Regatta, the Freshman Men's Eight competed in the semi-finals, coming in fifth in their heat, only three seconds shy of fourth. With such a strong freshman team, Lehigh's men's rowing certainly has a great season to look forward to next year.

Senior Spotlight: Tom Mazzucco '11

Tom Mazzucco has been an integral part of the rowing team this season, leading his team through the ups and the downs. In his final year, Tom became a member of the elite Varsity Eight boat during the spring season. Although he was not captain, Tom was a leader for the team in many ways. Coxswain Emily Hrichak describes him as being, "a leader by example." Due to his hard work and effort, Tom was able to row in the Men's Varsity Eight in the Dad Vail's regatta, which is the regatta the team trains for all season. His accomplishments while being a part of the team were invaluable and his dedication was inspiring.

The season started off a little bumpy for the Lehigh women's softball team, as they lost six straight games at their opening tournaments. However, once Patriot League action began, the ladies were able to rebound and score key victories against Bucknell, Lafayette, Army and Holy Cross. Using the powerful hitting of juniors Audra Wood and Julie Fernandez, as well as sophomore Liz Lucas, the Mountain Hawks ended the regular season with a 30-21 record. They entered the Patriot League Playoffs as the number two seed, only behind Colgate, whom they were only able to take one game from in the three-game series.

Facing a double-elimination style tournament, Lehigh took on Holy Cross in the opening game of the Patriot League Tournament. With a 6-4 win over Holy Cross, the Mountain Hawks moved on to the winner's bracket where they took on the winner of the other game, Colgate. In an impressive performance, Lehigh was able to knock off the number one seed 9-0 in five innings, placing them in the championship game. Taking on Colgate again for the championship, the ladies were even more remarkable, this time posting a 14-0 shutout in five innings. Three homeruns from Lucas and stellar pitching from sophomore Becca Bliss gave the Mountain Hawks their sixth Patriot League championship in eight years. Going undefeated throughout the tournament in order to claim the crown put Lehigh into the NCAA tournament. Although they exited the NCAA tournament after two early losses, the team has nothing to hang their heads about as their season comes to an end.

Senior Spotlight: Carly Potock '11

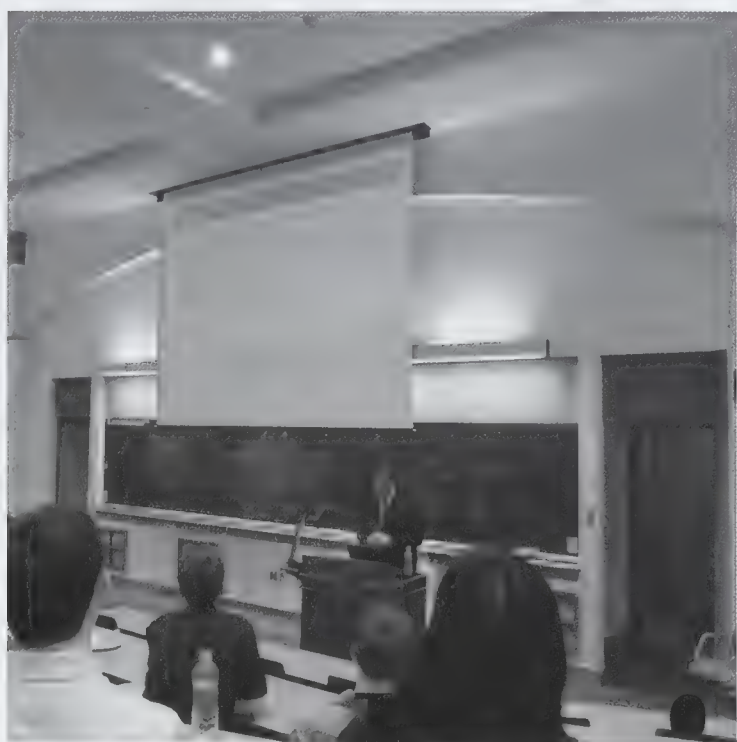

Senior outfielder Carly Potock ends her impressive college career with a batting average of .312 and 7 career homeruns. A captain her junior and senior years, Potock played several positions, but was mainly an outfielder. She was named to the Patriot League Academic Honor Roll all four years, was a Capital One Academic All-District II first team selection and an All-Patriot League second team selection. As her time at Lehigh comes to a close, Potock says, "As a team, our biggest motivation was each other. I feel fortunate to have had the chance to play the game I love with my 17 best friends."

Organizations

1. The Accounting Club is a student-run organization that aims to provide knowledge and enlightenment to the students of Lehigh University about the accounting field. The club promotes the exchange of ideas, instills student interest in accounting and provides career and professional information. Speakers are invited from business organizations to offer their insight into conducting a job search, networking with business professionals, writing your resume and interviewing. Accounting Club also organizes events, such as Accounting Day trips. This year, students and a few professors spent the day in New York City and visited large accounting firms.

2. Accounting continued

The club not only provides excellent career preparation, but it also helps foster the accounting community within Lehigh, with the help of faculty who help advise and provide insight. Freshmen often benefit from joining as much as the upperclassmen do, and early involvement has helped the growth of this Lehigh organization.

3. The purpose of the American Medical Women's Association is to expose female pre-medical students to the role of women in healthcare professions through shadowing, community service, assemblies and speakers. Although this organization is geared toward women, any individual of any gender has the right to join and learn with them.

4. The Business Careers in Entertainment Club's goal is to provide internships, job opportunities, hands-on experience and career information to undergraduate students interested in the business end of the entertainment industry. The club has 91 members on campus and has had multiple events, such as a resume workshop, which helped members tailor their resumes for the industry, and a networking trip to New York City where members met with employers at MTV, Entertainment Weekly, Sirius Radio and HBO. Aside from the events, BCEC has also started to affect the lives of individual students who have had job interviews and internship opportunities after making connections with executives during networking events.

1. Chi Epsilon is the national civil engineering honor society. Members are selected based on their scholarship, character, practicality and sociability. All members are civil engineering students in the top 1/3 of the senior class or the top 1/4 of the junior class. In April 2009, the Lehigh University chapter of Chi Epsilon initiated 13 new members from the class of 2010 and 2011. Throughout the year, members have spoken to local cub scouts about careers in civil engineering and helped elementary school students with a national bridge design competition. The chapter collaborated with the American Society of Civil Engineers to implement a Fundamentals of Engineering Exam review session on campus. Members have also worked towards starting a lecture series featuring civil engineering department chairs from other universities.

2. The Institute of Industrial Engineers (IIE) is a professional society dedicated solely to the support of the industrial engineering profession and individuals involved with improving quality and productivity within the industry. The institute was founded in 1948 and was called the American Institute of Industrial Engineers until 1981, when the name was changed to reflect its international membership base. Members include both college students and professionals. IIE holds annual regional and national conferences throughout the United States.

3. The Marketing Club strives to assist its members in broadening their marketing experiences through educational speakers, networking opportunities, field trips and other out-of-classroom experiences. These events enhance club members' abilities to identify their personal skills and compare these skills to their personal interests. The club also attempts to get students more involved on campus and help them gain more experience in marketing. The Marketing Club acts as the platform for students of all majors who are interested in marketing to further their knowledge, network with professionals and pursue their passion beyond graduation.

4. The purpose and aim of Lehigh University's Microfinance Club is to create an environment for students and faculty to learn about the international microfinance sector and to organize activities to promote microfinance as a tool for alleviating poverty worldwide.

1. Philosophy Club seeks to engage the world through thought and discussion. Philosophy is the practice of open reflection. It is the club's intention to simulate the spirit of this practice together, in a friendly, compelling environment. Over the course of the year, the club met in the cozy comfort of the Dialogue Center, trying on many perspectives in a search for understanding, meaning and, controversially, truth. The club sought to fulfill their responsibilities to live the examined life, knowing it to be the only one worth living. This year we've discussed such diverse topics as the nature of death and the morality of suicide and immortality.

2. Phi Sigma Pi is a co-ed national honors fraternity based on a tripod of scholarship, leadership and fellowship. The brothers of Delta Chi strive to combine the acquisition of knowledge, the fostering of leadership through service and the fostering of fraternal fellowship, and they act as a combination of an honor society, a service club and a social fraternity. To improve their minds and friendships, they attended events such as yoga, "Going Green," hiking and survival tips, 80's movie night, pick-up soccer and a brother retreat. Delta Chi wishes all of their graduating seniors the best of luck and welcomes the Tau and Upsilon classes.

3. The Psychology Club was organized so that psychology majors/minors or students interested in taking psychology courses can get together to meet each other and have questions answered. They have speakers and professors come to meetings, and they schedule field trips.

4. Sigma Alpha Pi, or The National Society of Leadership and Success, is a student-run group that consists of individuals who are determined to develop their leadership skills. Members learn leadership through a two-part approach by listening and learning techniques from experienced executives and successful networking teams and then applying these skills through enriching projects with professors, entrepreneurs and local companies. There is a strong emphasis on student initiative, self motivation, planning and effectively applying learned skills to achieve results. Society activities include guest speaker events, networking groups, goal setting meetings, leadership projects and social events.

1. The Lehigh University chapter of the Society of Women Engineers aims to create a positive support network for female engineering students. Through professional networking and academic development events, such as alumni dinners and panel discussions, SWE helps members excel throughout their college career. SWE members develop skills and form connections to facilitate success after they graduate. Our movie night, ice cream socials, laser tag, and other social events help form strong relationships between members to enhance

2. The aim of the Supply Chain Management Club is to promote, by means of various activities, the exchange of academic and social ideas, instill student interest in the field of supply chain and its vast opportunities and provide career and professional information. The club holds several events throughout the academic year and exposes students to networking opportunities, as well as one-on-one advice about their chosen major and field.

3. Tau Beta Pi, the national engineering honor society, was founded at Lehigh in 1885 by Edward Higginson Williams, Jr. to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their alma mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in engineering colleges. Tau Beta Pi provides professional development to its members and is active in the Lehigh community and the greater Bethlehem community.

4. The purpose of Women in Business is to support and promote women, particularly those linked to Lehigh, who are entering the business world or are already established within an industry. They achieve this through networking with external businesses and industry executives and Lehigh alumni, as well as with other student organizations.

1. The Lehigh Dance Team is compiled of talented dancers that strive to provide quality entertainment to a vast number of student and athletic events, as well as dance competitions. While their backgrounds and training differ, all members have an extreme passion for dance and devote much of their time to the team. Performances include the freshman pep rally, Parent's Weekend football game, Le-Laf-a-Palooza/Bonfire, home men and women's basketball games, Fashion-4-A-Cure, Relay for Life, International Bazaar, Spectacular Spectacular and many other events. The team is headed by its captain and co-captains. This dance family currently has 14 full-time members and 3 alternates.

2. For being a club sport, Lehigh Ice Hockey has a lot of fans, especially during Lehigh-Lafayette week where hundreds of students from both schools come out to watch their boys and engage in some friendly rivalry and cheering. The club has several seniors graduating this year and they will surely be missed; however the younger classes are increasingly talented so all can still look forward to exciting games.

3. The Gymnastics Club is currently a recreational activity to anyone who has experience, as well as anyone who is willing to learn. They attend Parkettes Gymnastics in Allentown twice a week. They intend to become a more competitive club, though not all members would be required to compete. Anyone is welcome to come out and participate.

4. Founded in 1994, the Women's Rugby Team emphasizes fun and fitness, as well as competition. Everyone from beginners to veterans are welcome to join the team and participate. There is a fall and spring season, each consisting of five or six games with A and B sides. The team competes with various schools in the area, all while having a great time. Featured here is a photo from the "Prom Dress Rugby Match," an annual event that showcases goofiness and athletic talent.

1. The Asian Cultural Society (ACS) is an organization that serves to recognize and celebrate all Asian and Asian-American cultures. During the fall, ACS hosts FUSION, an evening of dances and performances by various multicultural clubs on campus. In the spring, ACS creates events for the Asian American Pacific Heritage Month in April, where they have tea, sushi and origami workshops, as well as performers and comedians. Through the sponsoring of cultural festivities, educational programming and social events, the organization also hopes to contribute to the effort of increasing the Lehigh community's awareness of a diversifying nation.

2. The Black Student Union is a organization on Lehigh's campus to make others aware of African diaspora and African-American issues and culture. The club chose a social justice role in order to address the needs of the black students on campus. The group also extends these conversations through event planning and special programming, such as inviting lecturers to campus or the "Rock For..." benefit concerts. The Black Student Union not only gives students a place to socialize and share experiences, but also allows members to take active roles in creating the change they seek.

3. Chinese Culture Club allows students to gather and share their knowledge of Chinese culture. The main goal of the club is to spread Chinese cultural awareness throughout Lehigh by putting on events for the community to attend and enjoy. The Chinese Culture Club is a subgroup of the Asian Cultural Society. Together, they organize several big annual events. The main fall event is Fusion, where different culture groups come together and perform. In the spring, the club participates in the International Bazaar. Another major event is a gathering of other school's Asian cultural groups called ECAASU.

4. The French Club promotes knowledge of France and knowledge of the French language and culture. They participated in many activities this year, such as trips to New York and Philadelphia, as well as French food cooking nights. Every Thursday at Deja Brew, they meet, eat and speak French! Vive la France!

1. The German Club offers the Lehigh community an opportunity to celebrate German history, language and culture in a very welcoming environment for any student, faculty or staff member of Lehigh. The club hosts an event every month, totaling four events a semester. Every semester, the club tries to host one large-scale event, such as a major presenter or Oktoberfest on the UC front lawn. The Lehigh German Club had a new beginning in the Fall of 2010, and it will continue into the 2011-2012 academic year with the newly elected president, Kristina Moehle, leading the club.

2. The Italian Club celebrates Italian heritage, culture and tradition. By hosting weekly Italian lessons taught by Aleks Dasic, who lived in Italy for 10 years, the club created an informal setting for students to learn on their own schedule and practice speaking with each other. The Italian Club has partnered with other cultural clubs, such as the Spanish and French clubs, during International Week to bring together students and faculty from different backgrounds and organizations to share their traditions. The Italian Club has also taught a few cooking classes, including how to make pesto sauce and handmade gnocchi. The club has expanded from 2 officers in 2009 to almost 70 members in 2011, and they are excited to gain even more members in the future.

3. The Russian Club is a place where all are welcome and where one can come and learn about not only the rich legacy of the Russian culture but also about the world in general. It is a place where people gather to have discussions, to learn new things and to have fun. Non-Russian speakers can come to learn some of the Russian language and culture, and Russian speakers can come to practice their Russian with others. We have events that range from watching Russian movies, eating Russian food, discussing Russian poetry, learning Russian card games, playing chess and having speakers come in to present.

4. The Spanish Club is devoted to bringing cultural diversity to Lehigh University. They are an organization for those who wish to immerse themselves in the Hispanic culture and surround themselves with others who share this common interest. Club activities aim to unify the Lehigh campus, the local community and beyond as they explore various aspects of the Hispanic culture.

1. The main purpose of the Anime Eki is to promote awareness and appreciation of Japanese animation and Japanese comic books. The club's goal is also to make others recognize Japanese animation and comic books as an art form. In addition, this organization is responsible for teaching members about Japanese culture through this form of entertainment.

2. The purpose and aim of The Brown and Black is to offer a unique and empowering perspective to Lehigh University students by discussing issues specifically affecting people in the United States of America, abroad, and at Lehigh University from a socially conscious perspective. The Brown and Black is geared primarily toward breaking down racial, economic, political and social barriers by discussing them in a constructive and concise manner.

3. Since 1894, The Brown and White newspaper has been serving the Lehigh community and surrounding areas. More than 70 students across the three colleges and from all disciplines participate as editors, writers, photographers, designers and videographers. The Brown and White's purpose is not only to chronicle the events and issues that impact Lehigh students, staff, faculty and administration, but also to encourage a campus-wide conversation. This year's editors in chief were Liz Martinez '11 and Debbie Pearsall '12, who served in the fall and spring semesters respectively. The adviser is Wally Trimble. The publication prides itself in delivering "All the Lehigh News First."

4. FONI is an intercultural club and journal at Lehigh. Every year, they publish art and writing (both journalistic and creative) that reflects the diversity of our campus. Through FONI, we encourage students to share their unique stories, memories and insights with the wider Lehigh community. It isn't coincidental that FONI is Greek for "voice": no matter where you come from or where your life will take you, this journal offers an opportunity for self-expression. Club members organize events designed to recognize the variety of cultures and nationalities in the student body. The club strives to embrace, promote and celebrate the wide spectrum of ideas and outlooks in each of us – they strive to be your voice!

media/leisure

1. Lehigh Unregistered Video Club is Lehigh's student run video production club. From comedy sketches to documentaries, Unregistered does it all. Unregistered strives to act as a resource for both its members and the campus community, assisting individuals and other organizations with their own projects. In addition to smaller scale videos, Unregistered is involved in major campus events, as well including video for Dancefest and the filming of the Lehigh Lipdub.

2. University Productions, commonly referred to as UP, is Lehigh University's programming board. They put on many of the events on campus. UP is composed of five committees and an Executive Board, and the club is advised by the Director of Student Activities. Each committee has two directors that guide their committees. UP's five committees are: Music, Comedy, Arts & Excursions (A&E), Special Events and Marketing. Music brings different bands to campus and hosts the annual Battle of the Bands. Past bands have included The Wailers, The Roots, and Ben Folds. Comedy brings different comedians to campus; they host a large Family Weekend show as well as the Thursday Night Comedy Series.

3. University Productions continued:

Marketing provides advertisement to all of UP's events. A&E brings students to the action, with trips to Broadway shows, New York City and sports games. All other types of events fall into Special Events, including the weekly Kenner Theater movies and Tom DeLuca, the hypnotist.

4. WLVR-FM is Lehigh's student-operated campus radio station. Students can receive training in broadcasting and even host their own weekly shows. WLVR's format ranges from wide variety of music including punk, alternative, rock, rap and indie to talk and educational broadcasts. Students have the opportunity to get involved with any aspect of radio: DJ, business, music department, engineering and more.

1. Echoes, Lehigh University's all-female a cappella group, was founded in 2003. Eight years later, the group has matured into a fine musical act, performing on and off campus and collaborating with other collegiate a cappella groups. The Echoes' repertoire spans several genres, including pop, indie, hip hop, country and jazz. In addition to performing in several concerts each year, the Echoes have also lent their voices to campus events such as The Vagina Monologues, the Association of Student Alumni High Tea, and Relay for Life.

2. Lehigh LEELA is a fusion-style dance troupe, drawing mainly from East Asian and American styles of dance. On campus, they have been involved in many programs, including performing at Diwali (the festival of lights) every fall and the Cultural Bazaar every spring. In the past, they have traveled to competitions in New York and Philadelphia, and hope to begin attending competitions again next year. Their dances last about 5 minutes and mix popular Indian songs with upbeat American music in order to create a unique blend of different cultures. In this way, they are able to combine the different dance backgrounds of the club's members, learning from each other and creating unique performances that draw in all cultures.

3. The highly acclaimed Lehigh University Philharmonic Orchestra is a group of talented musicians who perform regularly in their home in Zoellner Arts Center, as well as various places in Europe, Asia, South America and Africa. The group is a mix of high school students, faculty, staff, community members and professional musicians, in addition to Lehigh's very own students who give this organization diversity. They put in long hours of practice weekly in order to perform four concerts a semester, as well as doing many outreach programs with the community. The orchestra celebrated great success in their tour of Eastern Europe this past spring and were proud to represent Lehigh across the world.

4. Lu's Finest Step Team is a performance club that uses their bodies to make music. The rhythmic beats produced by stomping their feet and clapping their hands is a tradition that has been passed down through generations of people, originating from Africa. Step dancing is based on a traditional form of boot dancing but with a modern dance twist. The club brings people of different races and backgrounds together to perform and have fun. The club is not only fun but it leaves members with lifetime friends. They've had the privilege to perform at several colleges in the area and mainly on campus. They've also been featured on PBS 13 to show how stepping affects college life. Their motto is: "Stepping is Paramount."

1. This year's Marching 97 had a season to remember, and it looks forward to an even bigger future. With nearly a full lineup of 97 marchers, Lehigh's band saw incredible growth this year, along with their usual peculiarities. They were graced with the presence of some distinguished, albeit quirky, folk at Alumni Band Day. These high-stepping blasts from the past showed us the true meaning of legs at a 97-degree angle. The 97 found themselves on the road quite a bit, following the esteemed Patriot League champion football team to the University of New Hampshire, Harvard and Georgetown, where the band sought to put a little psyche in the away stands.

2. Marching 97 continued:

At home, the 97 went on many a psyche run, put on Marching Lehigh, and put on a variety of shows, performing music from GaGa to the Jackson 5 to Indiana Jones.

Featured in this photograph are the Marching 97's graduating seniors.

3. The Mustard & Cheese Drama Society has been creating, supporting and promoting theatre at Lehigh since it was founded by Richard Harding Davis and Charles Belmont Davis in 1884. This year, as M&C celebrated its 126th season, the club continued to generate as many experiences and opportunities for its members as possible in areas of performance and design.

4. Mustard & Cheese continued:

The club held play readings and presented two student-directed productions. M&C continued to uphold its traditional contributions to the Department of Theatre by running opening night receptions, concession sales and the popular "wing night" after Wednesday evening performances. The fall semester ended with an M&C semi-formal held at Goosey Gander.

It is the drama society's goal to increase the frequency of full membership meetings and facilitate more exchange among its members and alumni. The club aspires to enhance its potential in the continuation of reaching out to the student body, as well as members of the surrounding community, bringing theatre into their lives and sparking their interest and participation in theatre at Lehigh University.

service/political action

1. Alpha Phi Omega is a national, co-ed community service fraternity. They strive to help all members develop leadership, experience friendship and provide service to others. Throughout this year, they have participated in many campus-wide events, including Spooktacular and Spring Fling, as well as providing service to larger organizations such as the Girl Scouts of America and the American Cancer Society.

Along with service events, they have numerous fellowship events, including potluck dinners, barbeques and movie nights, throughout each semester to bring the fraternity members closer together. APO welcomes new members to their chapter every semester, and they were pleased with the turnout this year.

2. The mission of Best Buddies is to provide an opportunity for college students and persons with mild to moderate mental retardation to become friends. Since contact between college students and persons who are mentally disabled seldom happens spontaneously, Best Buddies facilitates social contact by organizing group outings and requiring ongoing one-to-one activities for College Buddies and Buddies. Best Buddies seeks to contribute positively to the social and psychological development of all involved and to the community at large. Students increase their understanding of themselves and learn more about living together in a large and diverse community.

3. American Cancer Society's Colleges Against Cancer is a nationwide collaboration of students, faculty and staff dedicated to eliminating cancer by initiating and supporting programs of the American Cancer Society on Lehigh University's campus through four strategic directions: advocacy, cancer education, relay for life and survivorship.

4. From animal rights barbecues, gun safety talks and trips to the local shooting range, local candidate forums, debates with the College Democrats and trips to Washington DC to the Conservative Political Activism Conference (CPAC), the Lehigh College Republicans are an active, engaged group of individuals committed to conservative principles and values. They solicit for local and national Republican campaigns, meet the candidates and talk about issues at their bi-weekly meetings. Prof. Gunter is their advisor, guiding the club in the "right" direction.

1. Engineers Without Borders is a multidisciplinary organization that works to provide basic necessities to communities in need. The club is currently finishing up its work on a water sanitizing and distribution system for the town of Pueblo Nuevo, Honduras. Although the system is technically complete, the club is still working out some problems in the town that are preventing the system from being fully operational. LU EWB is also looking for a new project to work on in the future. The club has narrowed the choices to a couple of towns, and they plan to make decisions after collecting more information during spring semester this year. The club has also been working on projects around campus, such as helping with Green Week, designing a sustainable watering system for the campus community gardens, and meeting with other local EWB chapters.

2. At Lehigh University, Interfraternity Council consists of student representatives from each of the 19 North American Interfraternity Conference (NIC) chapters. The executive council is a board of seven active Greek-affiliated students elected by their peers to ensure the proper guidance of each fraternity chapter on campus. It is the goal of this executive board to provide members of each organization the resources needed to harbor a constructive environment that allows its affiliates to grow in fellowship, character and academics.

3. Green Action is Lehigh's only student group whose mission is specifically dedicated to environmental awareness and activism. They strive to make the Lehigh community more sustainable through education, outreach and activism. Green Action's devout core of activists have made big impacts this past year. Green Action helped to rid the campus of styrofoam take-out containers in the main dining halls to reduce waste. They founded an extremely successful Eco-Reps program for peer-to-peer environmental education in selected dorms that is already expanding for next year. Green Action has also been active in Lehigh's Environmental Advisory Group, sustainability workshops, and Earth Day. Throughout the year, we hosted films, events and speakers to educate the Lehigh community on topics ranging from hydraulic fracturing to water rights to sustainable farming.

4. Lawyers Without Borders

The purpose and aim of Lehigh Lawyers without Borders is to promote the work of Lawyers Without Borders, an official NGO at the United Nations. Lawyers Without Borders is the world's largest group of volunteer lawyers from around the globe who offer pro bono service to international projects and initiatives. Our club raises awareness of international policy and law, hosts forums and discussions that bring to light international strife and raises funds to help support the program.

1. The purpose and aim of The Lehigh Patriot is to serve as a vehicle for the political and social writings and opinions of Lehigh University, to foster debate and discussion and to work against political apathy. This year was a time of building for The Patriot, as Editor-in-Chief Ben Mumma stepped down to pursue graduate work and left control of The Patriot in the hands of a new editorial board. The Patriot continues its tradition of holding Lehigh's administration accountable to the students they serve in hopes that students become more cognizant of how their tuition is being spent. They are excited for their return to Lehigh in 2011!

2. Lehigh University EMS is celebrating its 20th year of operation. Beginning in 1991 as aLURT, with a few dedicated members, the organization has transformed into LUEMS, which now has more than 60 members. LUEMS is a Pennsylvania Department of Health certified Basic Life Support Quick Response Service (BLS QRS) servicing Lehigh's campus 24 hours a day, 7 days a week when classes are in session. All EMS crews are staffed by volunteer students. LUEMS averages a 4 minute response time, meaning the first wave of emergency care arrives almost instantly. Each emergency call is handled with 2 certified EMTs and an observer, who respond in the EMS vehicle. LUEMS responds to a wide variety of calls, including sports injuries, seizures and car accidents.

1. The Lehigh University Student Senate is a body of students who act as representatives in voicing the concerns of the undergraduate community at Lehigh University.

Senate is comprised of 45 Members, which are elected from all of the university's living groups: fraternities, sororities, on-campus, off-campus and first-year students. The seats are divided up proportionally to best represent the undergraduate population by affiliation and living groups.

Senate is comprised of a number of committees. There are three standing committees: Public Relations, Allocations and Club Affairs. Public Relations' task is to advertise and promote Senate and its activities.

2. Student Senate continued: Allocations is responsible for allocating the Senate's funds to the many different recognized clubs around campus. Club Affairs is responsible for providing services and resources to ensure these clubs succeed.

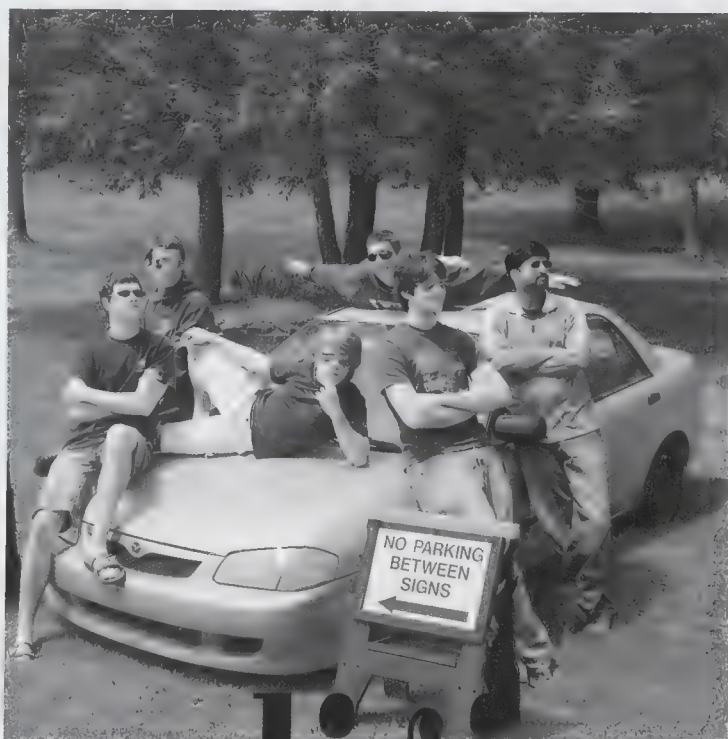

In the beginning of each academic year, the full Senate also recognizes CLIP committees. These committees are organized for the entirety of the school year and have specific goals. This year, there are five CLIP committees: Healthy Living, Infrastructure Improvements, Academic Affairs, Community Relations and Campus Climate.

1. Catholic Student Union gathers Catholic students across campus to join together in worship while also planning fun activities and events. CSU hold a number of service events throughout the academic year on campus, as well as off. CSU members volunteer at the Sacred Heart Assisted Living facility and help plan "Family Fun Night" at the Holy Ghost Parish Social Hall on Carlton Avenue, just a few blocks off campus.

2. The Hillel Society includes a regular series of dinners, holiday observances/celebrations, social events and educational programming. In addition to the many activities they sponsor throughout the school year, they provide a kosher kitchen, dining room, lounge area, student office and library. They continually strive to create an atmosphere that is comfortable and welcoming for students. This effort includes providing quality programming, maintaining their facility and upgrading their program to accommodate the ever-changing needs of their students. The Hillel Director directs the overall programming and management, works closely with students and provides guidance.

3. As one of the several on-campus religious student organizations, Lehigh University's Muslim Students Association is committed to providing religious services for the university's Muslim students. Formal daily prayers, as well as weekly congregational Friday prayers, are held regularly at the MSA mosque. The MSA also organizes a variety of events across campus in an effort to spread awareness and knowledge of Islamic culture and faith at Lehigh.

4. The purpose of Reformed University Fellowship (RUF) is to reach students at Lehigh University for Christ and to equip them to serve Christ, the church, the campus and the world. They accomplish this with a variety of activities. Central to all they do are their Tuesday night fellowship meetings for worship and teaching, which is done by an ordained minister. Throughout the week, they have Bible studies in the dorms, where they discuss the Bible and how it applies to their lives as Lehigh students. We also have daily noon prayer, Friday night social events, retreats and service projects. The whole Lehigh community, students, faculty, and staff, is welcome and invited to participate in this organization. RUF desires that everyone at Lehigh know, love, and worship Jesus Christ. They seek to spread the good news of eternal life in Christ to all and help them grow in that life with Him.

Living

freshmen quarters

GABRIELLE LA FORCE, '12

During freshmen year, students are placed all around campus in one of many first year housing options. When choosing to enroll at Lehigh, students have a few choices that allow them to influence their freshman dorm: they can request coed, a theme or a roommate. Little do the freshman know that where they live their first year will play a dramatic role in their college career. Each dorm has something special, making every freshman claim they live in the best dorm.

M&M is large and allows you to get to know a lot of new people. Lower Cents has the gazebo, and Upper Cents has the patio, while Dravo and Richards have basketball courts and the quad. Barri Bruno '14 loves the patio at Upper Cents: "It's a great place to hang out with people from all the dorms, plus we had some nice barbecues and s'mores up there." Even though no one will admit to one dorm being the best, when asked, most freshman admit to wanting to live in Lower Cents over all the rest. Jacob Epstein '14 said, "Lower Cents is smaller and allows you to get closer to a smaller group of people." Chad Efaw '14 agrees with Epstein's choice, but for different reasons: "I would live in Lower Cents because it is farther down in campus and not on top of a mountain."

upperclass accommodations

most schools, students will live on campus for a year and then decide to move off. At Lehigh, students are required to live on campus for their first and second year, and many continue to stay on campus for their junior year. There are many options for second year students to choose from, but only the lucky will get the best choice. All upperclass students that remain on campus partake in the Housing Lottery, their shot to get the best dorm. Most sophomores will hope for Sayre or Trembley, while juniors hope to live in Campus Square.

Since sophomores are required to remain on campus, the decision is easy, but for juniors and those few seniors still on campus, why did they decide to stay on campus? For some students, it's because of financial aid requirements or just for personal reasons. Emily Miksiewicz '12 said it was time for something different: "I wanted a change from dorm life and wanted to feel more independent." Matt

Breitel '12 enjoyed living on campus so much that he chose to do it again: "Living on campus is just easier sometimes; you have much less to worry about and less responsibility." Many juniors find themselves staying on campus for a third year, but come time for senior year, nearly every student lives off campus.

themed arrangements

GABRIELLE LA FORCE, '12

At Lehigh, students have many different choices for the type of environment they live in. Freshmen alone can choose CHOICE, co-ed, community service oriented housing, ROTC, South Mountain College or UMOJA. The different housing options allow freshmen to make college feel smaller by living with a smaller group of people with a similar focus. While other undergraduate students have similar options for the rest of their years, upperclassmen also have the opportunity to live in green housing, a musical appreciation house or the technology house. These themed living arrangements are located all around campus. Some are individual buildings located in Warren Square, along Packer Avenue or among the Greek Houses on the Hill. Other themed houses are single floors in university residence halls, like CHOICE or the Live.Learn.Serve community service floor.

Students choose to live in themed housing in order to give them a closer sense of community. It allows them to get to know people with similar interests by living together. Lehigh is looking to increase the amount of themed housing to create a larger sense of diversity within the Lehigh community.

off-campus digs

GABRIELLE LA FORCE, '12

Off-campus housing has a clear division between the two sides of campus. There is the west side of Montclair and Birkel Avenues and the east side of Hillside and East 5th. Each side of campus has their benefits, but ask anyone on campus and they will have their favorite. Most business students find themselves leaning toward the east side due to the proximity to the Rauch Business Center, but they also get stuck with smaller houses. Those streets also offer limited parking without the Boyer Alley between Montclair and Birkel Avenues. The west streets are typically occupied by student athletes while the majority of the residents on the east side of campus are members of the Greek community.

With an increase in the number of crimes off campus, especially on Montclair and Birkel Avenues, less students are choosing to live on that side. Many local landlords with houses on that part of campus are having a much more difficult time renting out their houses. Throughout the year there were frequent break-ins and muggings, making safety a major concern to many students. Lehigh increased police patrol to help keep students safe, and they issued many precautionary tips. Gilly Watson '12, a student living off campus, became extra cautious after the events: "I would try to coordinate more with my housemates so that we would walk home together."

The brothers in Kappa Sigma have shared many great experiences that make the house the special place that it is. The chapter had a successful year by gaining 21 new members who hope to enjoy everything the house has to offer for the years to come. The brothers involve themselves in a wide array of extra curricular activities including various club sport teams ranging from ice hockey to skiing to tennis, as well as other activities such as the Finance Club, the Brown and White, and the Leadership Lehigh Program. Kappa Sigma has really made its' presence felt in the Greek community by holding two major positions on the IFC Executive Committee, President and Treasurer. The future of Kappa Sigma looks promising for the years to come.

Lehigh Founded: 1901

2010-2011 was an epoch filled with many incredible and long-lasting memories. Our brothers bonded through anger, laughter, brotherly love, and a mutual commitment to lift PIKE to new, unprecedented standards. While enjoying each other's company we have found a multitude of quotes and moments that adequately capture these shared sentiments. While rehashing these memories, we will forever remember the following quotes: "...arghhh..." -Josh Work '12 [sarcasm]"Obviously, if three different people repeat the same rumor, then it must be true. What is this...the rule of three?"[sarcasm] -Vickrum Singh '13 "Get Big." -Anonymous "I've got an important question for you. Do you think Oprah is hot?" -Ben Singer '11... We observed Joe Nelson's ferocious rhymes. We witnessed the rise of Max Fayans's eclectic blog.

We ingested Sunshine's incessant flow of ideas. While Andrew Cauchi perpetually polled the chapter about forthcoming brotherhood events, our fellow love-guru, Ben Singer, perpetuated his philosophy on the rules of attraction. While Myles Gamboa met several times with the Bethlehem Fire Department, Mike Rossi cordially collected unpaid dues. While Adam Howse scored a plethora of points in intramural Basketball, Big Rob commanded his grandiose army of PIKES to flock Lehigh's campus and beautify it with garnet and gold. New unforgettable moments will arise and join these recollected tales of yore. These memoirs might be unidentifiable to some. However, you can bet on our good feelings to directly stem from our core. It's been a fantastic year gentlemen.

a letter from the president

To the Class of 2011:

I extend my heartfelt congratulations to all of you. Your graduation from Lehigh University is a time of great joy, a time to celebrate everything you have accomplished. Lehigh University is proud to call you alumni.

To have studied at a university like Lehigh is a great privilege. You have worked hard, and you depart with a solid foundation for a successful future. I am confident that you have developed the wisdom, resilience, creativity, and agility to become the leaders the world so desperately needs. Just as so many have done before you, I hope that you will take the great Lehigh spirit with you.

Helping to make the world a better place is fundamental to the mission of Lehigh University. The diploma you received carries the seal of the university, with the university motto, taken from Francis Bacon: Homo minster et interpres naturae, which loosely translated means, "Man, the servant and interpreter of nature." Serving one another and improving the human condition have been part of Lehigh's legacy since its founding. You have already continued that legacy in your great service and accomplishment as Lehigh students; I am sure that you will extend your impact even further. Many inspiring Lehigh alumni give generously of their time and talents to make the world a better place. As you embark on your career, I have no doubt that, when the time comes that you are called to give something back, you will answer that call.

Your years on South Mountain have passed quickly, but you will always be part of the Lehigh family. You are always welcome here, and I hope you will return often. And, when you do come back, I hope that you will share your experiences with those following in your footsteps.

As you leave this wonderful place full of fond memories, buoyed by lifelong friends you have made, and excited about the possibilities that are before you, go in confidence that your Lehigh years prepared you well. I speak for the entire university when I say that we are all enormously proud of you. Please keep in touch with your alma mater as you make your way in the world.

I wish each of you the happiest and brightest of futures, and I am confident you will do great things.

Sincerely,

Morgan the Future Is All Yours

You were born with a strong, self-directed, insightful mind.

Your passion to succeed was evident from the start.

Your accomplishments have opened the door to facilitate your dream of being a doctor.

You figured out at an early age just how a responsible individual should be.

You rarely make the same mistake twice.

You generally like to think through a situation before entering into it.

You're a dedicated friend and have dedicated friends who enjoy sharing your successes with you.

Your integrity is important and you expect the same of others.

You listen carefully to others and want to understand the science of life.

Your blossoming, bright future is glowing with wisdom and loving support.

You're the best daughter in the whole world and have provided us with so many great stories about your life, that we are actually embarrassed to tell others how charming and wonderful your life path has already been.

One day you'll have more time to sit back and take a look at what you've accomplished with a good book in your hand, sipping a fruit drink by the ocean and just enjoying the moment ... with a good friend or two or three or twenty.

Much Love always, Mom and Dad

Dear Andrew,

As you graduate from Lehigh, I am so proud of you and all your accomplishments. You are a very special grandson who is handsome, kind and smart.

You sense of humor always makes me smile.

I wish you lots of health, happiness and success in your future!

Love, Grandpa Paul

Andrew Klein '11

Dear Andrew,

As you graduate from Lehigh, we must tell you how very proud we are as your grandparents.

You have so far exceeded all our expectations, graduating in three years and continuing on for your master's degree. Your efforts will be rewarded with extraordinary opportunities in the future.

Much love always,
Grandma Bevie and Grandpa Sonny

Andrew Klein '11

Lauren A. Koenig '11

Dear Andrew,

We are extremely proud as you graduate from Lehigh University. You have matured into a handsome young man who possesses great determination and wisdom. Your sensitivity and kindness, along with your sense of humor, are attributes which make you so special.

Throughout the past three years, you have worked diligently, set high goals for yourself, and achieved them. Your passion for golf, along with your work as a caddy, exemplifies your intense commitment. Academically, your achievements are impressive; your ability to prioritize and balance schoolwork along with fraternity life has been evident. While at Lehigh, you have formed special friendships, along with everlasting college memories, that we are certain you will always cherish.

Your graduation represents the beginning of a new and exciting phase in your lifelong journey. Our wish for you is that this amazing journey be filled with all your dreams and aspirations. We will always be there to support you, and we love you very much!

Love always,

So cliché to say, "It's like only yesterday," but so very real. I'm proud and blessed to see my little girl become more than my dream come true. Here are the words of some only here in spirit. Love, mom

Your Granny: "She dropped out of heaven into my arms!" Like you, she was the first grandchild and very close to her grandmother. She shared that same closeness with you.

Your B-Pop: "She's no Erika!" All other children paled in his sight once he had his first grandchild. He and I were so close. Watching you two together was like looking back in time to my childhood.

Your Dad: "She's Amazing!" Years before we married, we sat working on a FORTAN program. After his finally ran, he still stayed to fix mine, and I said, "You amaze me!" And that is where it all started...

Awesome Andy,

Your heart, your spirit, your words, your deeds,
your character, your college diploma...
You make your family inexplicably proud!

You inspire us. In turn we share some inspirational words from wise and accomplished people you have admired and enjoyed.

All our dreams can come true...if we have the courage to pursue them.
- Walt Disney

If opportunity doesn't knock, build a door. - Milton Berle

Be who you are and say what you feel, because those who mind don't matter and those who matter don't mind. - Dr. Seuss

Volume 135 of the Epitome yearbook was produced at Lehigh University, 33 Coppee Drive, Bethlehem, PA 18015. It was printed by Taylor Publishing of Dallas, Texas: 1550 W. Mockingbird Lane, Dallas, TX 75235. Mr. Ed Patrick served as the local sales representative; Mr. Stewart Moore served as the account executive. The 2011 Epitome sold for $80.00. Pennsylvania residents were charged an additional 6% for sales tax. The book consists of 240 pages, and the total press run was 1,000 books.

Content: Content for the 2011 Epitome was provided by the collective efforts of a staff of more than 40 individuals. The sections were edited as follows: Academics: Meagan McDonald '11; Features: Lindsay Miller '11 and Julie Laskin '12; Athletics: Brian Henry '11; Clubs & Organizations: Jessica Morgan '13; Greek Life: Madeline Schatzman '12; Living: Gabrielle La Force '12. Each editor was responsible for a team of one to five students who were tasked with responsibility for content and direction. The Parent Advertisements section was configured and assembled in its entirety by David Canfield '14.

Proofing & Editing: Responsibility for initial proofing falls on a respective section's editor. Following this, Edit Board members proofed pages, in addition to Natasha Burns '08, our assistant advisor, as well as Linda Lipko, our advisor.

Photography: Photography for the 2011 Epitome was entirely digital, with work provided collectively by Nick Anshant '11, Gina Mason '12, Dan Cobar '12, Dalisbeth Galvez '14, Nickesha Taylor '11, with the exception of certain photos provided by Davor (a division of Herff-Jones) and Christine Masone '11. Photos of special note include the full-page divider photos by Nick Anshant '11. Photos highlighted in the opening and closing spreads were the work of Nick Anshant '11 and Dan Cobar '12. Artwork/sketches are attributed to Max Gilbert '12.

Design: Design for the 2011 Epitome was a collective effort of Edit Board members Christine Masone '11, Haydee Kristina Lopez '11, and Madeline Schatzman '12. Additional support was provided by Trevor J. Drummond '10, the book's editorial consultant.

Cover: 160-Point Bindersboard, with a custom emboss on the cover, spine and back. The material is Caramel Leather with topscreen of Taylor Tan #888 and an Antique Gold Foil overlay. The cover was designed by editorial consultant Trevor J. Drummond '10 with input and consideration from Edit Board members Christine Masone '11, Haydee Kristina Lopez '11, and Madeline Schatzman '12.

Endsheets: The endsheets use Light Cream colored stock with Sepia #41 coloring at 40%. The endsheets were drawn by Max Gilbert '12 based off a photograph provided by Nick Anshant '11.

Typography: The fonts utilized in this text are as follows: all body text is Athena, a Taylor font, at 12-point with 11-point leading. All special copy is Nouveau, a Taylor font, at 10- or 12-point font with 10- or 11-point leading. All title text is Bodoni Campanile, a Taylor font, at 75-point. Opening and closing quotes are Embassy, a Taylor font, at 28-point. All pages excluding endsheets are 100 lb Dull Enamel paper stock. The Epitome was printed with Komori Super Perfector presses.

Software: The 2011 Epitome was assembled and (in part) designed with StudioWorks, Taylor Publishing's proprietary online service. Some elements were created in Adobe Illustrator CS5. Adobe Photoshop CS5 was used to process photographs for the 2011 Epitome.

Dedication: This book is dedicated to the Class of 2011!

This year has been a journey. Producing a yearbook takes time, dedication, support and love. It is not an easy task to take an idea and transform it into a publication, as my staff quickly discovered.

The process began a year ago when my editorial team and I attended a conference in Kansas City, MO. Collaboration was key at the time and we were able to leave Missouri with our cover and endsheet concepts, a design theme and a close bond, all before the school year had officially begun. With a publication that can take over a year to complete, we soon discovered how valuable our early teamwork was.

As the semester unfolded, my editorial team and I tried to bring the rest of the staff up to speed and continue with full forces on completing the book in record timing. As I sit and write this letter on the first day in June, I would say we accomplished our goal. However, none of this would have been possible without the commitment and enthusiasm of a special group of individuals involved.

My most heartfelt thanks goes to Linda Lipko, Advisor; Natasha Burns, Assistant to the Advisor; Ed Patrick, representative from Taylor Publishing; and Mark Huff, representative from DaVor Photography. Without all of your administrative assistance, this book could not have been completed.

I would also like to specially thank Trevor J. Drummond, Editorial Consultant. Without your love for yearbooks and uncanny design skills, the book would never have reached its full potential. Your help and guidance throughout the year has been more of a blessing than you may ever know.

I would like to thank Haydee Kristina Lopez, Madeline Schatzman and David Canfield for being a supportive editorial team. The long hours you each devoted to this book has helped make it shine.

Finally, none of this could have gotten done without the hard work of my staff. Through the amazing photographs and the wonderfully written stories, this group of individuals poured their hearts into this book to help make it truly special.

I hope you enjoy the 2011 Epitome. May you look back on this book and recall your treasured memories from your time at Lehigh.

Best Regards,

Christine Masone, '11
